Munitions Inquiry In U.S. Now Under Partial Censorship

Protests From Five Countries Cause Senate Committee to Withhold Certain Names From Publication

Chile To Buy No More U.S. Planes

Associated Press
Washington, Sept. 14.—The United States Senate munitions inquiry committee today clamped a censorship on some phases of its widespread munitions investigation in the face of serious protests from at least five countries.

Names of Chinese officials who reportedly took "commission" from a Du Pont agent in 1932 were withheld from the record and from the newspaper reporters.

Reference was made that this and subsequent letters, which were not made public, might have political repercussions abroad.

The action followed a conference by Secretary of State Cordell Hull with the committee.

The Mexican Ambassador here brought a protest from his government against introduction of the names of President Rodriguez and other Mexican officials into the Senate committee's hearing.

The story of a visit Lamont du Pont and Senator John Townsend, Delaware Republican, paid Assistant Secretary of State Rogers in 1932 prior to the sale of a patented hydrogen process to a Japanese concern was related to the committee today.

Although the process was described as not primarily for military purposes, Japan and China were then engaged in what was termed "warlike activities."

Evidence was also presented that the joint Shanghai representative of the E. I. du Pont de Nemours Corporation and the Imperial Chemical Industries Ltd. of London, England, suggested in 1933 representations be made to the United States Department of Commerce and the British Foreign Office in an effort to lift restrictions on shipment of munitions to the Canton government.

LABOR WANTS NO FASCISM

Toronto, Sept. 14.—Fascism was condemned at today's session of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada here to-day when approval was given a resolution from the Winnipeg Trades and Labor Council asking the congress to use every means at its disposal to defeat the movement.

SHORTER WORK WEEK IS URGED

Labor Congress of Canada Wants Inter-provincial Conference on Legislation

Canadian Press
Toronto, Sept. 14.—Reiterating its demand for a shorter work week, the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada today favored an inter-provincial conference to assure the adoption of legislation bringing this into being.

The congress yesterday went on record as favoring a thirty-hour week in order to prevent unemployment. The move to-day, while not specifying the length of the working week, was interpreted as meaning even less than the thirty-hour week.

President Tom Moore explained this might be interpreted as a twenty-hour week.

POLITICAL DISCUSSION
Repercussions of the refusal of the Congress to seat a Communist on Tuesday were heard.

"There are many workers in the penitentiaries of the country," Tim Buck and Tom Ewen, for example, because of their political opinions, and this Congress has never raised a hand," declared John P. Gault of Long Branch, Ont.

"This is not the first time a Communist or Communist sympathizer has told us the same thing," answered Mr. Moore.

The Congress then passed the resolution under discussion.

Proposed by the Saskatchewan Trades and Labor Council, it referred to the Regina public school board's ban on political activities among its employees.

Toronto, Sept. 14.—Two important changes in the policies of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada were made at its session here yesterday. The former demand for a forty-hour working week in the Dominion was

At the Inquiry Into Morro Castle Disaster

Acting Captain W. F. Warme of the ill-fated steamer Morro Castle told the U.S. Government inquiry board at New York on Monday that he believed the fire that swept the ship was "set by someone." A locker in the ship's writing room burst into flames as if gasoline or kerosene had been ignited, he said. The above picture shows Dickerson N. Hoover (standing, right) inspector general of steamship inspectors for the Department of Commerce, questioning Capt. Warme (seated, left). The bandage on the left hand of Capt. Warme can be seen.

Morro Castle Officers Criticized At Inquiry

Cutter Needed At Rescue Was Far Away

Washington, Sept. 14.—Demanding an inquiry into the use of a coastguard cutter to bring Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, U.S. Minister to Denmark, home from Greenland, Senator Daniel Hastings, Delaware Republican, today said "part of the blame for the long Morro Castle death list falls on the head of whoever sent the Champlain to Greenland."

Board Investigating at New York Told By Deck Storekeeper Officers Failed to Give Necessary Orders As Flames Spread in Ship

Associated Press
New York, Sept. 14.—Charges that officers of the liner Morro Castle did not give necessary orders to the crew when flames swept the ship off the New Jersey coast and that highly inflammable cleaning materials were used on the vessel were made today by William O'Sullivan, a deck storekeeper on the liner.

At the United States Department of Commerce inquiry into the disaster of last Saturday, O'Sullivan testified that had there been the orders there should have been, the crew would have responded. Asked if there was a deficiency in the officers rather than in the crew, he replied "Yes."

In response to questions, O'Sullivan said inflammable cleaning polish was used on the Morro Castle, and was used commonly around the bridge.

He asserted there was no pressure in the fire hose he assisted in playing on the flames.

CITY FIREMAN TESTIFIES
A New York city fireman, John Kempf, declared that as early as 12:45 P.M. last Saturday morning he smelled smoke in the liner. Other witnesses have placed discovery of the fire which destroyed the ship at about 3 a.m. E.S.T.

Kempf said that after he went up on deck he saw very few ship officers.

COPIES WANTED
Meanwhile, U.S. Attorney Martin Conboy, who yesterday charged attorneys for the Ward Line, which operated the Morro Castle, with attempting to block the grand jury investigation of the disaster by concealing facts and advising witnesses, submitted to Judge Alfred C. Cox a memorandum supporting his suit.

Trial Follows Doctor's Death

T. A. Sargood Committed in Vancouver; Dr. A. P. Procter Died of Bullet Wounds

Canadian Press
Vancouver, Sept. 14.—Charged with the murder of Dr. A. P. Procter, chief medical officer in Vancouver for the Canadian Pacific Railway, Timothy A. Sargood, former locomotive fireman, was committed by Magistrate E. D. King today to stand trial at the fall assizes here.

Dr. Procter was shot in his office on August 3 and died in a hospital seventeen days later. Sargood had been confined to the hospital since then until today, suffering from a severe bullet wound in the head which police allege was self-inflicted.

Under cross-examination, Dr. A. W. Hunter, coroner's physician, stated Sargood is suffering from Paget's disease, which had caused a thickening of the bones. He further testified that it sometimes caused thickening of the skull bones, but stated he had never had experience with a case in which the skull had thickened to such an extent that it had caused pressure on the brain.

Dr. E. D. Pantou, police surgeon, declared the disease had not created a pressure on Sargood's brain, but said that in an advanced stage of the disease the sufferer was likely to become very despondent.

Don Sutherland Retains Lead In B.C. Title Golf

Vancouver Pro Shoots 74 This Morning at Colwood For Fifty-four-hole Score of 220; Ken Lawson in Second Place With 224; Phil Taylor Has 80

Adding a 74 to his thirty-six hole total of 146 for a fifty-four-hole score of 220 Don Sutherland, professional at the Vancouver Golf and Country Club, retained his lead in the British Columbia closed golf championship at the Colwood Golf Club today.

Sutherland had a four-stroke lead over Kenny Lawson, Uplands Club amateur and holder of the city crown, who shot a 78 this morning for a total of 224. The final eighteen holes of the tournament were being played this afternoon.

Three players, Bob Morrison, Uplands amateur, and Freddy Wood and Benny Calk, Vancouver professionals, were tied in third position, with scores of 226. Morrison shot a 79 this morning, Wood had a 77 and Calk a 74.

TAYLOR HAS 80
Phil Taylor, Victoria Golf Club pro, defending champion, just about had any chance of retaining the title this morning when he took an 80, for a total of 227, which tied him with Harold Brynolfson, Uplands amateur, who shot a 74.

Alan Taylor was next with a total of 228, made up of 77-77-74.

The cards for Sutherland and Lawson this morning follow:

Little-Goldman In Golf Final

Brookline, Mass., Sept. 14.—David (Specs) Goldman downed his fellow Texan, Reynolds Smith, today in an interview to-day and gained the final round of the United States amateur championship. Goldman's margin of victory was 4 and 2 in the thirty-six-hole semi-final.

William Lawson Little, San Francisco, holder of the British amateur title, forged into the final at the expense of Don Armstrong, Chicago, 4 and 3, in his booming quest for a golfing "double" that only Harold, Hilton and Bobby Jones achieved.

Little will tackle Goldman in the thirty-six-hole championship match to-morrow.

PRISON STRIKE COMES TO END

Most of 120 Convicts at New Westminster Reported Back at Work

Canadian Press
New Westminster, Sept. 14.—The majority of the 120 convicts who went on strike during the last two weeks at the federal penitentiary here have returned to work, prison officials said today.

Since Tuesday, increasing numbers of the men who were locked up when they refused to work, have been allowed to return to their various jobs at their own request.

Wednesday night some of the convicts, believed to be the ringleaders of the strike, banged their furniture around, and the penitentiary has been quiet.

The strikers had demanded wages for their work and convicts' standing committees, demands which were refused.

London, Sept. 14 (Associated Press).—The United States dollar lost 9-16 cent here today, closing at 85-16 to the pound sterling. The price of bar gold remained unchanged at 140s 6½d ($35.20) a fine ounce.

The Times Will Start New Picture Feature

To-morrow The Times will begin publication of a new picture feature for boys and girls. The title of this series will be "Best of Pals." Every boy and girl on Vancouver Island is invited to send in pictures showing them with their pets. Any kind of pet will do—dog, cat, white mice, pigeons, horse, rabbit or kangaroo, if you have one.

The feature, "Best of Pals," which has been so popular, will be discontinued to-morrow.

Those who send in pictures for "Best of Pals" are asked to forward full particulars, giving the names of the children, their parents, where they live and something about their pets.

Australian Vote Saturday

Prediction Made No Party Will Have Clear Majority in New House

Canadian Press
Melbourne, Australia, Sept. 14.—Independent surveys indicate the likelihood that no party will gain an independent majority in Saturday's Australian general election, but that the present ministry will remain in power.

In the last House the United Australia party under Prime Minister Joseph Lyons had an independent majority of just one seat, although in all critical divisions it counted on the support of Dr. East Page's Country Party. The Opposition was divided between the Labor Party under former Premier Henry Scullin and the extreme Laborites under J. V. Ward.

The consensus is that the Lyons ministry will suffer no more than the normal reaction against a government of three years' standing, but will lose its outright majority.

GROUP CONTROL
Anti-Labor forces are expected to retain control of Parliament, the only difference between the United Australia Party and the Country Party being on the question of tariffs. The alternative of labor rule is expected to keep the Country Party solidly behind Premier Lyons if, as seems likely, it should hold the balance of power following the vote.

Standing of the parties in the House of Representatives at dissolution six weeks ago was: United Australia Party 28, Country Party 15, Labor 14, State Labor 5, Independent 2.

The voters will also fill half the thirty-six seats in the Senate, of whose membership half is elected every three years. Labor would need to gain sixteen of the eighteen open Senate seats to get a majority in the Upper House. Standing in the Senate is as follows: U.A.P. 19, Country Party 5, Independent 1, Labor 7, State Labor 3.

DOUGLAS CANDIDATES
There are 265 candidates for the seventy-five House seats, including thirty-seven candidates of the

KIDNAPPERS LOSE VICTIM

H. D. Snell, Cordell, Okla., Falls Out of Bandits' Auto and Is Rescued

Associated Press
San Antonio, Tex., Sept. 14.—Abducted for $50,000 ransom, H. D. Snell, wealthy Cordell, Okla., merchant and farmer, accidentally gained his liberty from two kidnapers early today when he fell out of the kidnapers' automobile while it was lurching along an unpaved road several miles north of San Antonio.

Snell lay unconscious on the road, but revived sufficiently to stumble along until he reached Alamo Heights here, where J. R. Emrie, a special policeman, saw him.

SEIZED AT HOME
Snell said he was kidnapped early Thursday at his home in Cordell, 100 miles northwest of Wichita Falls, Texas. Despite torture by his kidnapers and two confederates who joined them for a time near Wichita Falls, Snell steadfastly refused to sign notes or cheques for $50,000 to gain his freedom, he said.

One Jones of the United States Bureau of Investigation, one of the government agents who solved the kidnapping of Charles Urchel, wealthy Oklahoma city oil man, was called immediately.

President Roosevelt Voyages to Course Off Newport, R.I., to See First of America's Cup Races Between British Challenger and U.S. Defender

Many Yachts Already at Scene

Poughkeepsie, N.Y., Sept. 14.—President Roosevelt, journeying to witness the America's Cup races off Newport, R.I., starting to-morrow, boarded Vincent Astor's yacht Nourmahal here today.

By TOM HOBGAN
Associated Press Staff Writer
Newport, R.I., Sept. 14.—Nine miles southeast of Brenton's Reef, out on the open ocean, two of the most graceful and speediest sailing craft ever built will open a contest to-morrow morning for possession of an unattractive silver trophy that since 1851 has been battled for by British and United States yachtsmen.

If a sailing breeze is ruffling the water, the starting gun will boom at 10:40 a.m. E.S.T. (7:40 a.m. Victoria time). Absence of a breeze would bring fifteen-minute postponements, and possibly postponement for the day. Races will be sailed daily, except Sundays, until one boat has won four.

OLD TROPHY
The trophy is the America's Cup, won by the schooner America, which she led a fleet of British yachts in a race around the Isle of Wight eighty-three years ago. Fourteen British and Canadian challengers have in the intervening years returned empty handed.

This year finds T. O. M. Sopwith with his big blue aloof Endeavour, the challenger, and Harold S. Vanderbilt and Hainbow the defender. Four years ago Vanderbilt sailed Endeavour to success over the late Sir Thomas Lipton's fifth challenger, Shamrock V.

The course will be determined by the direction of the wind and all courses will be of thirty nautical miles and proceed alternately windward-leeward and triwindward.

B.C. Deficit Will Be $1,000,000 Less

Revenue Improvement and Government Economy Makes Situation Brighter, Says Hon. John Hart; Will Balance Next Year

Improvement in conditions, coupled with economy and reorganization of governmental methods, will reduce British Columbia's budget deficit for the year 1934-35 by about $1,000,000, Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, announced this morning.

In his March budget, Mr. Hart anticipated a shortage of $2,110,846 between current revenues and expenditures, exclusive of sinking funds and unemployment relief costs.

The minister also said he confidently expected to present a balanced budget to the B.C. Legislature next year, again not including sinking funds or relief expenditures.

SURVEY TO START
A survey by taxation experts of the government service is now ready to start on reorganization of the system with this end in view.

The process of rebuilding various services has been under way for several months and an eye has been kept on reducing expenditures where possible.

While Mr. Hart did not detail specifically the revenue increases, it is understood that liquor profits, motor vehicle licenses, the gas tax and income tax are improved somewhat this year, as well as forest revenues.

Mr. Hart pointed out that in presenting his 1934 budget to the House he had made few alterations in the general principles followed out by his predecessor in office, as up to that time the new government had had where rioting has occurred during the week, the police under the watchful eyes of police and national guardsmen. Several units of federal troops were held in readiness, however, in the event new disorders flared.

Putnam, Conn., was tense as a silk mill prepared to reopen in the face of a union ultimatum that the mill must remain closed. Militiamen were on duty.

A charge of dynamite exploded near the transformer of a plant in Fayetteville, N.C. No damage was done.

President Roosevelt's strike mediation board prepared to report to the Chief Executive and he was expected to take action to settle the walkout.

IN RHODE ISLAND

Providence, R.I., Sept. 14.—Peace, restored by the use of bayonets, gas bombs and 400 combined efforts of police and national guardsmen, returned to Rhode Island's textile centres to-day, even as plans were under way to summon aid from the United States army.

Two deaths, six wounded and uncounted scores of injured climaxed Thursday when national guardsmen in Woonsocket were all but beaten in their desperate struggle to restore order, was the total of casualties known to-day.

Governor Theodore Francis Green yesterday called the Rhode Island Legislature into extraordinary session after a telephone conversation with President Roosevelt, in which Mr. Green said the President had told him he would arrange for federal troops for Rhode Island as soon as a formal request for aid was received.

A resolution which would have declared a state of insurrection and would have called on the federal government for aid was proposed, but its introduction was deferred.

War veterans, acting as individuals, mobilized at Woonsocket and Pawtucket after the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars, as organizations, had voted not to enter the strike.

Woonsocket, in contrast with the previous night, was one of comparative peace. Trucks filled with national guardsmen patrolled the business areas.

Washington, Sept. 14.—Labor and capital mobilized forces to-day as the battle for the textile industry of the United States and the American Federation of Labor.

The opinion was expressed by both mill owners and labor that the strike has transcended the bounds of a single industry and become a decisive test of union strength under the National Recovery Act.

Some cotton mill owners, who have rejected the arbitration services of the President's mediation board, have privately pressure has been brought on them from other industries to resist all demands of the United Textile Workers.

One spokesman said: "If we give in, there will be a wave of strikes in all industries; it is a case of determining here and now whether or not organized labor is all-powerful."

William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, has recognized the present strike "as highly significant in the labor movement and has ordered all affiliated groups, state federations and city central organizations to provide at once every assistance to the striking textile workers.

The strike was interpreted as "a challenge to organized government" by Robert L. Lund, president of the national Association of Manufacturers.

poena through which the government seeks to obtain copies of all prospective witnesses' statements.

The loss of life in the disaster still stands at an estimated 134.

BEFORE GRAND JURY

Chief Officer James Henderson and the three other ranking officers of the liner President Cleveland, who yesterday sharply criticized Capt. R. E. Carey, their master, for delay in sending lifeboats to the aid of the liner Morro Castle, were called yesterday evening before the federal grand jury investigating the disaster.

They had testified earlier that the President Cleveland might have saved additional lives if Captain Carey had not waited forty-eight minutes after arriving at the scene before ordering out rescue boats.

"They tried to make a goat out of me," the master declared, "but their own testimony shows what they did."

DRIVEN BACK

M. L. McElhenry of Plainfield, N.J., a passenger, was the first witness at today's session of the inquiry board. McElhenry, an elderly man, said he was awakened "I know not how" to see a glow in the cabin windows.

His cabin was on G deck. On going forward he saw fire on the stairway leading to the next higher deck. McElhenry said he helped to turn water on the fire, but was driven back when the flame-heated water burned his bare feet. He testified there were other hoses in play.

"A lifeboat was being lowered on a deck and I climbed in," he said. "Where there any passengers on your lifeboat?" asked Karl C. Neilsen, an inspector of the bureau of navigation.

"I was told I was the only passenger. I have no recollection of seeing anyone forward except a man trying to lower a boat," said the witness.

He said he "might explain" the reason why fewer passengers than crew members were saved.

"Those passengers on a deck were probably injured by the fire," he said. "I was told they were later cut off by the fire."

Australian Vote Saturday

Douglas Fairbanks is putting up a vigorous fight under the banner of the Social Credit scheme of Major C. H. Douglas. The Douglas campaign, directed by the Douglas League, has been one of the most interesting features of the entire campaign.

For the Senate seats, sixty-six candidates are in the running, including nine Douglas men.

CLOSING SPEECHES
Melbourne, Sept. 14.—Last-minute speeches were being made to-day from hundreds of platforms throughout Australia, as voters prepared to go to the polls Saturday in the triennial, general election.

Prime Minister Joseph A. Lyons, head of the United Australia Party, government, wound up his campaign here yesterday evening, following a great rally at the Sydney Town Hall yesterday evening. To-night he plans to fly back to his native state of Tasmania to await the results.

His chief opponent, former Premier James H. Scullin, whose Labor government was overthrown in the last general election in 1931, expressed himself hopeful of the outcome.

There are indications that point to his native state of Tasmania to indicate that even if the government party lost a number of seats, Labor would still be unable to gain control of the House in face of the U.A.P.-Country Party coalition.

THE ISSUES
Chief issues were defined as lying between continuation of the orthodox policies of the Lyons government, which Premier Lyons claims were largely responsible for Australia's undoubted recovery in the last few years, and the outright socialization plea of the Labor Party, which has put in the forefront of its platform, nationalization of the Commonwealth banking system.

POLISH COURSE IS CRITICIZED

Should Be No Minorities Argument, League Assembly Told

By GEORGE HAMILTON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Geneva, Sept. 14.—Britain and France united to-day in calling Poland to task for her threat that henceforth she will recognize no international supervision of her treatment of minorities. They were supported by Italy.

Following the speeches chiding Poland, China again brought before the Assembly of the League of Nations denunciation of the Japanese invasion of Manchuria and establishment of the puppet state of Manchukuo.

Sir John Simon for Britain sharply reminded Poland she could not, by single-handed action, release herself from international obligations to which other countries were parties, but said he could not believe that was the intention of Poland. Louis Barthou, French Foreign Minister, agreed with Sir John.

CONSULTS WARSAW
The Assembly adjourned until later while Joseph Beck, Polish Foreign Minister, got in touch with Warsaw as to what reply he would make, if any.

Replying to M. Beck's declaration that until a general assembly for international treatment of minorities was approved all rounds of Poland will not accept international obligations concerning treatment of minorities, Sir John Simon said:

"It would not be possible for any state to release itself from obligations of this kind, thus entered into by unilateral action." Poland had assumed the obligations under minority treaties, he pointed out.

"I would add in this regard that the terms of Article 93 of the Treaty of Versailles cannot be overlooked—the articles which deal with the establishment of Poland," he said.

Baron Pompeo Aloisi, Italian spokesman, declared Italy found it hard to imagine what M. Beck meant by a unilateral denunciation of a general treaty. "The Italian policy," he said, "is that existing obligations must be respected pending their possible future revision."

MANCHURIAN QUESTION
Quo Tai-chi, Chinese spokesman, said "the fact a puppet appointed by alien task-masters who does their bidding in China's northeastern provinces, has assumed the name of emperor, does not alter the covenant-breaking military occupation which China endures."

He warned the Pacific Ocean was becoming the storm centre of the world. "There is no doubt that continued military occupation of China's northeastern provinces constitutes the gravest existing danger of another great war," he said.

ALL LANDED
Carey took charge of the rescue of passengers and crew, the statement said, drove back male passengers who rushed to the lifeboats and saw to it that women and children were the first taken ashore. The 180 passengers and sixty members of the crew were the gravest existing danger of another great war," he said.

The statement also credited Carey with being the hero of the fire which destroyed the coastwise liner Congress in 1918 off Cape Bay, Oregon. "Carey has a unique record," the statement added. "Not a soul was lost in the crisis though the rescue work was carried out under extremely difficult circumstances."

Capt. Carey, master of the President Cleveland, well known in Victoria, having commanded ships of the Dollar Line plying between here and the Orient.

PRISON STRIKE COMES TO END

Disciplinary measures had been enforced in the penitentiary and the rebellion of convicts was quelled. Col. H. W. Cooper, warden, said yesterday. His statement was an official indication of the trouble to reach the outside.

GREAT DIN
The warden stated that late on Wednesday the ringed-in convicts, who had been in their cells, smashed up the iron furniture and rattled the iron table legs up and down the bars, creating a terrible din. Several toilet fixtures in the cells were smashed beyond repair.

He said he believed this demonstration was made in an effort to persuade the convicts to remain on strike.

COST OF WAGES
Ottawa, Sept. 14.—It would cost at least $78,000 a year to pay wages to convicts in Canadian penitentiaries, Brig-Gen. D. M. Ormond, superintendent of penitentiaries, said yesterday evening in commenting on the prisoners' strike at New Westminister.

It would cost hundreds of thousands of dollars each year if any grandiose scheme were adopted, the penitentiary official said. From other sources it was learned it was improbable wages would be paid to convicts, considering it cost $570 to maintain a prisoner over a twelve-month period.

Brig-Gen. Ormond said reports from New Westminister describing the din within the prison and smashing of fixtures were exaggerated, but he admitted the men had struck for wages and the right to have a convicts' committee recognized.

"I am not giving opinions," Brig-Gen. Ormond said when asked if he believed the strike resulted from other causes.

little opportunity to study the situation. He said at that time the estimates had been drafted on a conservative basis and might show a better position at the end of the year. This forecast is now being borne out by the circumstances.

While it will not include striking funds or relief costs, there was every indication that this budget would be balanced.

Blackmail Charge Is Heard at Trial
Canadian Press

London, Ont., Sept. 14, Mrs. Mrs. Turnbull, her son, Frank G. Taylor, and his wife, Ross, appeared yesterday before Magistrate T. W. Scandrett on a charge of "threats of money by threats," and were remanded till Sept. 21. Bail was set at $10,000 for each.

The three were arrested in connection with the London and Ontario police drive against an alleged blackmail ring said to have cost London business men thousands of dollars during the last few years.

CAPT. ROBERT E. CAREY
of the liner President Cleveland

San Francisco, Sept. 14.—Officials of the Dollar Steamship Company praise the "excellent record" of Captain Robert E. Carey of the liner President Cleveland, whose conduct in the Morro Castle disaster was criticized at the U.S. Government inquiry in New York yesterday by his first and third officers, who said they had lost confidence in him because he had delayed in sending lifeboats to the burning ship.

"Captain Carey," a statement issued by officials here said, "has been in the employ of the Dollar Line and affiliated companies for thirty years, seventeen years as a captain. He has a good, clean record clear through, has always maintained strict discipline on his ships and has never had an accident to any vessel under his command."

The statement said that in 1904, Carey as first officer of the Pacific Coast Steamship Company's liner Pomona distinguished himself when the vessel crashed on Monterey Rock in Fort Ross Cove on the northern California coast.

Carey took charge of the rescue of passengers and crew, the statement said, drove back male passengers who rushed to the lifeboats and saw to it that women and children were the first taken ashore. The 180 passengers and sixty members of the crew were the gravest existing danger of another great war," he said.

The statement also credited Carey with being the hero of the fire which destroyed the coastwise liner Congress in 1918 off Cape Bay, Oregon. "Carey has a unique record," the statement added. "Not a soul was lost in the crisis though the rescue work was carried out under extremely difficult circumstances."

Capt. Carey, master of the President Cleveland, well known in Victoria, having commanded ships of the Dollar Line plying between here and the Orient.

PRISON STRIKE COMES TO END

Disciplinary measures had been enforced in the penitentiary and the rebellion of convicts was quelled. Col. H. W. Cooper, warden, said yesterday. His statement was an official indication of the trouble to reach the outside.

The warden stated that late on Wednesday the ringed-in convicts, who had been in their cells, smashed up the iron furniture and rattled the iron table legs up and down the bars, creating a terrible din. Several toilet fixtures in the cells were smashed beyond repair.

He said he believed this demonstration was made in an effort to persuade the convicts to remain on strike.

COST OF WAGES
Ottawa, Sept. 14.—It would cost at least $78,000 a year to pay wages to convicts in Canadian penitentiaries, Brig-Gen. D. M. Ormond, superintendent of penitentiaries, said yesterday evening in commenting on the prisoners' strike at New Westminister.

It would cost hundreds of thousands of dollars each year if any grandiose scheme were adopted, the penitentiary official said. From other sources it was learned it was improbable wages would be paid to convicts, considering it cost $570 to maintain a prisoner over a twelve-month period.

Brig-Gen. Ormond said reports from New Westminister describing the din within the prison and smashing of fixtures were exaggerated, but he admitted the men had struck for wages and the right to have a convicts' committee recognized.

"I am not giving opinions," Brig-Gen. Ormond said when asked if he believed the strike resulted from other causes.

little opportunity to study the situation. He said at that time the estimates had been drafted on a conservative basis and might show a better position at the end of the year. This forecast is now being borne out by the circumstances.

While it will not include striking funds or relief costs, there was every indication that this budget would be balanced.

SHORTER WORK WEEK IS URGED

supplanted by a new proposal urging a six-hour day and a five-day week. For the first time in thirty years a change appeared in the constitution with the provision enabling federal unions to issue charters to industries wishing to form single union rather than the craft type.

The resolution on the work week reads: "Resolved, this congress calls on the federal, provincial and municipal governments to immediately take under consideration and bring into being as expeditiously as possible extensive building and public works programme with trade union conditions and observances of a six-hour day and a five-day week, thus making a definite step towards relieving the present deplorable unemployment situation, and also helping, in some measure, to raise the standard of living which has been lowered during the years of depression to an alarming extent."

Continued efforts will be made to industrial conditions in the Dominion, the congress decided.

Another piece of business relative to industrial conditions was the acceptance of a report containing labor's stand on the minimum wage and industrial control.

FEDERAL UNIONS
The proposal to enlarge the scope of the federal union came in a report of the committee on constitution and laws, submitted by Fred White, M.P.P., Calgary. Carried by a large majority, the new plan will go into effect whenever the incoming executive council decides.

P. M. Draper of Ottawa, secretary-treasurer, the congress said that if a union would not accept a charter from an international union, the Trades and Labor Congress would provide it with a federal charter in an effort to combat the Workers' Unity League and the All-Canadian Congress of Labor.

"Do you want to see us go to fold our arms in Ottawa and allow the Workers' United League and other dualism to put it over on us?" Mr. Draper challenged.

UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE
Contributory unemployment insurance, urged in a resolution from the Montreal Trades and Labor Council, received endorsement.

Mr. Moore, opposing non-contributory insurance, because it would require proof of the question of need. Labor, he declared, must carefully consider changing its adopted policy in this respect.

Strong trade union organization was regarded as essential to the endorsement of minimum wage laws, the report on industrial control and the present day trend toward codified industry, the congress passed a series of recommendations designed to prevent abuse of any new law.

It desired provision for amendment of such laws and the appointment of inspectors to enforce the Uniformity of working hours and laws throughout Dominion was stressed as necessary. These objectives could only be secured by the adoption of a series of recommendations

School Leave For Prairie C.C.F. Leader

Canadian Press
Saskatoon, Sept. 14.—Reasonable assurance that M. J. Goldwell, leader of the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation in Saskatchewan, will be granted a year's leave of absence by the Regina school board without any forfeiture of seniority, is felt in C.C.F. circles as the result of a conference that was held.

It is expected this decision will be confirmed by the board at a meeting which may not take place for some days yet.
Mr. Goldwell anticipates leaving immediately for Ontario to take part in the federal by-election campaign. Returning to Saskatchewan, he will devote his whole time to the leadership of the provincial party.

SEES DANGER IN LAND TAX

Judge Harper, Vancouver, Urges Redistribution of Taxation in B.C.

Canadian Press
Vancouver, Sept. 14.—Land is bearing a tax load which it cannot stand, Judge A. M. Harper said in an address to the Ward One Ratepayers' Association yesterday evening.
Heavy taxation on land was the beginning of a vicious circle which ultimately brought about the surrender of taxable land to municipalities and a consequent reduction in revenue, he said.
The cause of this burden was that governments, in inaugurating new services, particularly those of a social nature, had shown a tendency to take the "easiest way out" and apportion the additional levy to real estate.
FEWER TAXPAYERS
Judge Harper's address was largely based on his recent report on municipal financing, from which he quoted, in 1928 tax arrears of British Columbia municipalities amounted to $3,400,000, a sum which in 1932 had amounted to $9,500,000. He declared the number of taxpayers in Vancouver was rapidly growing less.
"The real solution lies in redistribution of the burden of taxation," he said. "Do not let us consider that the landowner should support a burden which properly belongs to the community as a whole."
"The situation is shocking. Many business men are being forced to give up their properties and homes. When the home is destroyed, what have you left?"

Highway Growth Is Discussed

Canadian Press
Murray Bay, Que., Sept. 14.—The TransCanada Highway has really been in process of construction since the first rude trail was opened along the banks of the St. Lawrence River in the seventeenth century, W. H. McIntyre of Toronto, president of the Ontario Motor League, told delegates to the annual convention of the Canadian Good Roads Association here yesterday.
Definite conception of a road across the whole Dominion did not come until British Columbia entered Confederation in 1871, he said. "One of the articles of the agreement was that a highway as well as a railway should be built to connect the new province with eastern Canada."
The chairman was Hon. Frank M. MacPherson, Minister of Public Works of British Columbia.

Associated Press
Tokyo, Sept. 14.—Chunzo Mitsuuchi, minister of railways in the late Saito cabinet, was indicted for bribery and jailed yesterday as prosecutors pushed their investigation of the finance ministry scandal of the Saito government.

SOLDIERS—THEN AND NOW

Written specially for The Victoria Daily Times
By DR. THEODORE GOODRIDGE ROBERTS

No. 5
Only five Victoria Crosses were awarded to Canadians in 1915. Four of these were won on April 23, April 24 and 25, and the fifth on June 15. Corporal Fisher got the first and he died getting it. Company Sergeant-Major P. W. Hall got the second, and he, too, died performing the act. The third fell to Lieut. E. D. Bellow of the 7th Battalion, April 24, and the fourth to the Canadian Army Medical Corps—Captain P. A. C. Scrimger, M.O. of the 14th Battalion.
FOR SAVING LIFE
Two of these three earliest awards were made in the spirit of former wars—for saving life at the risk of life. These are the awards of Hall and Captain Scrimger. Fisher's was in a new spirit, the later spirit, though his was the very first; for he saved a critical situation, war material, and indirectly, hundreds of lives. As the war developed, the old spirit of awarding the V.C. became impractical. It became too big and too terrible a war. If every man who risked his life in saving or trying to save a comrade's life had been given a V.C., many hundreds of the little crosses would have come to the Canadian Corps. So many were made that they were no longer life-critical situations, vital positions and the lives of companies, battalions, brigades even.
Hall was a volunteer, but originally of Belfast, Ireland. He joined the 8th Battalion in August, 1914, and in time became a C.M. On the morning of April 24 he made two rescues of wounded men, under heavy aimed fire. Later in the day he attempted a third rescue after two of his company, Payne and Rogers, had been hit and turned back. He reached the wounded man, took him on his back, but was shot through the chest before he got home. Captain Scrimger rescued a wounded companion from a shelled and blazing farm that had been a brigade headquarters. Perhaps that does not sound a very great thing—but it is called for a much courage and as much of the pure spirit of sacrifice, as did other V.C. deeds of greater military consequence. General Garth Hughes, then brigade major of the 3rd, was signed that day in that same farm—if my memory serves me.
Lieut. E. A. Whitehead, commanding his platoon in a tight corner, was hit in the ankle at 3 o'clock a.m., and remained on duty, with the bullet in his ankle-bone, until he flopped from the pain of it at 3 of the afternoon. That was nothing. That was a commonplace incident, by the standards of that war. Heroes were cheap in those terrible years, even as early as the year 1915. These "old soldiers" who sit about and swap yarns are lucky to be alive.
Here is what happened to one battalion of the Canadian "originals" in the first three days of Canada's introduction to modern warfare. And the same thing, in varying degrees, was happening to all of them. Its commanding officer was killed. All its company commanders were killed or wounded. Of two of its companies, every officer was put out of action, many of them for ever. And its dead and wounded "other ranks" numbered 600.
But all the talk of "old soldiers" is not of death and destruction. The more cheerful memories remain the clearest in many cases, thank Heaven or life would be a prolonged nightmare to ten of thousands of Canada's citizens. There was laughter even in the trenches; there was merriment and louder laughter in the rest-billets, and there is laughter now. Jokes were cracked by men with blackened faces while they waited to go out and raid a hostile trench.

Tientsin Rounds Up Its Beggars

Many Mendicants Put in Workhouse Where They Will Learn Trades

Canadian Press
Tientsin, China, Sept. 14.—In an attempt to end the institution of beggary in Tientsin and to rid the streets of all mendicants, the Chinese police have received orders to arrest all beggars on sight. On the day following receipt of these orders 450 beggars were arrested.
All arrested beggars have been installed in a large workhouse where shelter, food and clothing are to be provided, where they will be taught some trade so they may earn a decent living and not be dependent on the alms grudgingly handed out by the public.
In China beggars are so commonplace as to arouse comment only from those foreigners who have recently arrived, and none at all from the Chinese people. Beggary is regarded as a necessary evil, and there are no Chinese laws prohibiting the soliciting of alms in the streets.

HAVE GUILDS
In practically every case the beggars are organized into large and often powerful guilds, each build controlling and begging in its own special territory. Usually the day's takings are handed over to a superior officer, who returns a certain percentage to the mendicant. Often, too, serious trouble breaks out between two or more guilds when one organization feels its own territory has been invaded by a rival.
Many cases on record where beggars have deliberately maimed themselves, or have effected skillful imitations of disease and crippled limbs, which are displayed in such a manner as to excite the sympathies of passers-by. Religious festivals and fairs are gold mines for beggars, who play on the superstitious minds of the pilgrims by reminding them that unless they drop a copper or two into the begging bowls the gods will turn deaf ears to all prayers. Usually they "collect."

MOVE TO REDUCE STREET NOISES

Vancouver, Sept. 14.—Unnecessary noise in Vancouver will be banished if the city council acts on a recommendation of the police commission. The commission yesterday decided to ask the council to adopt a by-law similar to one now in effect in Calgary, which would prohibit motorists from unnecessary honking of their automobile horns, and ban street radios, gramophones and other noise-making instruments.

GOLD TO U.S. FROM HOLLAND

Associated Press
Amsterdam, Holland, Sept. 14.—The Netherlands Bank was announced officially to-day as prepared to sell gold for transfer to the United States if and when the exchange rate makes such a course profitable, on condition the United States government maintains the present gold value of the dollar and agrees to export gold to Holland if necessary.
Hitherto, the Netherlands Bank has refused to release gold for export to any country.

H. H. CABANISS DIES AT ATLANTA

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 14.—Henry Harrison Cabaniss, eighty-five, a pioneer in southern journalism, one-time vice-president of the Associated Press and publisher of The Atlanta Journal from 1887 to 1908, is dead.
After a long period of failing health, Mr. Cabaniss died at his residence here.
One of the organizers of the Southern Newspaper Publishers' Association, he used his influence to help organize the Associated Press in the south in 1894.
Mr. Cabaniss also was a former director of the American Newspaper Association.
The funeral will be held to-morrow.

TOURIST DUTY COSTS ARE CUT

Ottawa Ruling Eases Levies on Articles Brought Into Canada

Canadian Press
Ottawa, Sept. 14.—To assist the building up of the tourist business in Canada, an easing up of the more severe restrictions on tourists' outfit and travelers' baggage for personal use was announced by the Department of National Revenue yesterday.
The changes have in mind the amount of money spent in promotion of the tourist business by provincial governments as well as the Dominion department officials stated.
Cigarettes which may be brought in duty free are increased from 100 to 200.
Cigars up to fifty may be imported duty free by tourists, replacing the former limit of forty.
Radios, typewriters, canoes, outboard motors, tents, camp equipment, photographic instruments and other articles such as baby carriages, lawn mowers and the like, for the use of the tourist only, may enter without payment of deposit.
Guns, rifles, fishing tackle, golf clubs, tennis rackets, previously used by a tourist and imported for his personal use, will continue to be allowed entry without deposit.

VEGETABLE SALES POOL DEBATED

Canadian Press
New Westminster, Sept. 14.—The question of pooling produce shipped under the Natural Products Marketing Act was debated at length by potato and other vegetable growers of the Fraser Valley at a meeting held for the purpose of organizing under the act.
Suggested pooling or produce of similar grade and quality aroused an extensive argument, some delegates doubting whether the petition for marketing control would be signed if pooling was decided on.
Finally it was decided to leave the question of pooling to the discretion of the commodity board which would administer the act.
The meeting decided the area to be brought under the marketing scheme should be the lower mainland extending eastward to Hope and southward to the United States boundary. A previous proposal that Vancouver Island should be included was rejected.
Many growers have signed the petition for marketing control, but Chinese growers have not signed, it was reported.

Disarmament Debate Delayed

Geneva, Sept. 14.—Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, president of the World Disarmament Conference, has left Geneva and the cause of disarmament has been definitely put off for an uncertain period.
Mr. Henderson informed League delegates before his departure he hoped to convene a meeting of the steering committee in November to consider the next steps to be taken.

SIR ERNEST WILD DIES IN LONDON

Canadian Press from Havas
London, Sept. 14.—Sir Ernest Wild, sixty-four, one of England's most distinguished jurists, died yesterday. For many years he presided at the Old Bailey, London's criminal court, giving sentence in numerous celebrated cases.
The death was also announced of Sir John Roberts, a leading figure in the textile industry and director of a number of firms.
Vienna, Sept. 14 (Canadian Press from Havas).—Austria's "human vampire" was executed yesterday, Johann Fiescher, the man-monster of Bernburg, who murdered three persons in a nearby forest and then mutilated the bodies, heard the death sentence from the Vienna tribunal with a cynical smile.

COLLEGE CHANGE IS APPROVED

Canadian Press
Kingston, Ont., Sept. 14.—Conversion regarding removal of Professor J. King Gordon from the chair of Christian ethics and religious education at the Montreal Theological College was injected briefly into the discussions of the General Council of the United Church of Canada here yesterday.
The executive of the church had taken the stand the action of the board of governors in declaring the chair vacant on June 30 last should not have been taken before reference was made to the General Council. However, it was decided the regularly constituted committee of the council was quite competent to consider the whole matter.

League Delinquents Are Urged to Pay Up

Canadian Press
Geneva, Sept. 14.—Britain thinks nations in default on their contributions to the League of Nations should be required to pay up.
"There is a snake in our financial paradise," said Sir Ernest Bennett, assistant British Postmaster-General, before the League's budget committee yesterday. "It is the growing resentment of those members of the League who pay their contributions fully and regularly, when they realize that in fact they are paying more than they normally would if all their colleagues were equally virtuous."

AMENDING THE CONSTITUTION

UNDOUBTEDLY THE BRITISH NORTH America Act needs more amendment to bring it in line with changes in Canadian thought and progress. It was devised by a group of statesmen, who however sagacious, naturally were unable to see far into the future and who necessarily were influenced by the conditions which existed at the time of its conception. Canada's expansion, the diversification of the interests and aspirations of the Canadian people, have inevitably created certain problems of administration which call for remedies not to be found within the limits of the national constitution; problems which have been accentuated by the abnormal demands upon government arising out of economic depression.

But there are several considerations which should be borne in mind by those who talk about overhauling the B.N.A. Act without taking note of all of the implications of this course. One of these is the fundamental fact that this Dominion is the creation of the provinces, not the parent of them, and that the basis of the compromise structure which arose from the Quebec conference where confederation was practically born was the protection of provincial rights. The provinces actually got together and formed a partnership, the holding institution of which was a federal government. They had no intention of subordinating their own essentially provincial rights and interests to any centralized authority. In that respect they were wise in their day and generation, since no highly centralized national government can successfully administer the affairs of so large and diversified a country as Canada. Confederation in such circumstances probably would not last very long.

Premier Bennett has called a conference of provincial premiers to consider amending the B.N.A. Act under a number of heads. This conference should be able to arrive at readjustments which will remove certain anomalies, duplication of authority and policy among them, but the provincial governments will resist any efforts to transfer to the federal government such powers as will restrict their own provincial autonomy, or responsibilities. Over-centralization of authority in Canada would result in certain and swift disaster.

MRS. PRO GOLFER

WHEN INTERNATIONALLY-FAMOUS golf professionals are giving exhibitions or playing in money competitions, should their wives follow them around and watch every shot from tee to putting green? Perhaps this question may not have occurred to many people; but it is one which evidently is of considerable concern to Gene Sarazen, former British and United States open champion, who will be here to-morrow to play in an exhibition match with Joe Kirkwood against the Taylors, father and son, at Oak Bay. This is what Mr. Sarazen says about the golf professional's wife, what she should and should not do:

The saddest thing in golf isn't a muffed two-foot putt that loses a big championship. It's those zealous, jealous and gasping wives of our playing professionals, who habitually follow their husbands and watch them fire every shot in a money tournament or open championship. It's time the shackled pros arose in a body and told them to stay home, watch their pro shops or sew buttons on the old man's shirts. Those women are the curse of golf to-day.

Now we never thought it was as bad as this and we shall have to wait and see what Mr. Sarazen's brother professionals propose to do about it. It is easy to understand, of course, that Mrs. Pro. Golfer is anxious at all times for her husband to be "in the money." She is just as human as the wife who thrills to the beam of satisfaction which lights up her husband's face when he returns from a tournament with his first bit of silverware—even though he may only have won the eighth flight. To be a finalist is to discover much consolation for many muffed shots.

Mr. Sarazen's argument, however, is interesting. We do not know whether Mrs. Sarazen will accompany him here to-morrow and proceed with him on his tour of Australia. It is hardly likely. In any event, she will be able to sew a lot of buttons on if she is remaining at home. But Mr. Sarazen will learn more about this wife business in the southern Dominion when he meets the cricketers who recently recaptured the mythical "Ashes" in England. The Australian Cricket Board has a standing embargo against test match players' wives accompanying their husbands. This is so rigid that even Mrs. Woodfull, the wife of the Australian captain, had to obtain special permission to join her husband—after the five test matches had been played.

So Mr. Sarazen ought to get some first-hand information from the Cricket Board as to the machinery it employs to prevent its test players from being harassed by their wives while they are on the serious business of batting and bowling for the "Ashes."

THE "534"

WE ARE TOLD THAT SEVERAL OF the closely-guarded secrets of the giant Cunarder, No. 534, have now been disclosed. For example, unlike any other ship in the world, the "534" will have three different sized funnels. The reason for this is to allow the smoke from each funnel to blow clearly away. If funnels are of identical size, says a technical expert, the blending fumes from them all tend to create a mass or pall of smoke that may descend to the decks. It appears that experiments were made with thirty models of funnels before this scheme, with the tallest funnel seventy feet high, was decided upon.

Special interest, however, seems to centre on the revelations about the great vessel's "whistle." She will be equipped with the deepest bass voice that has ever rumbled over the seas. It will pierce for ten miles into the darkness. It is three-throated, and instead of being upright, as other ships' sirens are, its "mouths" will stand out like eight-foot long guns in all directions from the funnels. In fact, by touching an electric switch the engineer will turn on a treble peal of thunder. The tone of the "whistle" resembles the note "A" on the piano—two octaves below middle "A." This voice was decided upon, not by seamen, but by professors of music and acoustic experts experimenting with horns and other musical instruments.

It appears that the remarkable thing about the voice is that, although its gentlest whisper will carry so far, its mellow depth is such that the passengers on the ship will not be disturbed by it. Of all notes on the piano this one was found to be the ideal one for nerve comfort. No sudden, shrill shrieks will make the passengers fall out of their berths with fright. Instead, the designers of this "voice" say, "they will become so attuned to it that they will hardly hear this wave of sound. Perfect 'control' of its voice will be possessed by '534,' and it will not always sing with the full majesty of its three 'throats' at once. Sometimes just a ten-mile 'murmur' from one 'throat' will be all that is necessary."

All this is very interesting in this day and age of wonder creations. Those who are hoping that Britain, with "534," will recapture the blue ribbon of the Atlantic, held by the Mauretania for so many years, and now sported by Germany, will hope also that her owners will be able to make her pay her way.

RUSSIA AT GENEVA

THEY ARE STILL WRESTLING AT Geneva with the question of admitting Russia to the League of Nations. Some objections and certain technicalities will have to be brushed aside before the door is opened.

Russia herself has laid down several conditions which she asks shall be taken into consideration. Important among them is the demand that she shall be universally recognized. There is nothing extraordinary about this, for, as Litvinoff has quite properly pointed out, "we can not participate on a basis of complete equality in a combination some of whose fifty-seven varieties of members do not recognize the Soviet government either de facto or de jure."

The natural request from Russia that she be granted a permanent seat on the Council of the League can be granted quite simply. There are two empty chairs round the green baize, those formerly occupied by Germany and Japan, while a third permanent seat, that earmarked for the United States, has never been occupied. And since Great Britain, France, and Italy, permanent members of the Council, are in favor of Russia taking her place beside them, the rest should be easy.

The chief snag at the moment is the attitude of Poland. Her government is taking the stand that if Russia gets a permanent seat, she also ought to be allotted one. Dictator Pilsudski has hinted that failure of his government's claim to be recognized in this way may mean the withdrawal of Poland from the League altogether. Spain and Brazil took a similar attitude when Germany was admitted. Both left; but Spain returned to the fold.

What Litvinoff wants and persistently argues for is more teeth in the Covenant. He would make the Covenant and the League the police agent of the Briand-Kellogg pact. He regards the outlawing of war in principle as merely a pious hope expressed; punishment of the peace-breaker through military, economic, and moral sanctions, in his opinion, is the only deterrent worth while.

The Briand-Kellogg pact, it will be recalled, abolishes war as an instrument of national policy. If Russia shall obtain her permanent seat on the Council, therefore, we may presume that her efforts will be directed to give practical effect to this "pious hope expressed."

AN EXAMPLE

A FEW WEEKS AGO THE BRITISH authorities made an experiment by prohibiting the sounding of automobile horns in the city of London between 11.30 p.m. and 7 a.m.

This experiment is now found to have worked so well that it will be extended to every city and town in England. Britishers have made the not entirely surprising discovery that the night is a great deal more pleasant when its stillness is not constantly being shattered by the raucous toots of motorists who lack consideration for their neighbors.

One wonders how long it will be before Canadian cities begin to follow suit. Certainly this is a reform that would help everybody and hurt no one.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

COMMON-SENSE
 The Detroit News

The common sense of an Englishman often helps him to solve a problem.

A complaint was made because a lad of fourteen was skipping school. The authorities called in his mother to find out why. She said it was because he was just an inch short of six feet tall, was bigger than any of his teachers, and had to sit at a desk that was too low for him. Therefore he hated school, and because of his size the teachers could not discipline him without asking for trouble.

The authorities consulted, and found the answer. They sent a policeman, six-foot-two to talk to the boy. He is back in school.

WEATHER NEWS FROM ALOFT
 The New York Sun

Under the system put into effect on July 1, the Weather Bureau's flying observers rise three miles daily from twenty airports to gather data for the forecasters. Their equipment is described by Science. Attached to a wing of each plane is a meteorograph which automatically records humidity, temperature and pressure. The pilot, besides operating his plane, makes note of the altitudes of the top and bottom cloud banks, the positions and altitudes of rainstorms which fall into dry streaks of air and do not reach the earth, and the courses of local disturbances like thunder storms and dust clouds. Pilot balloons released from the ground reveal the direction and speed of different layers of air.

Loose Ends

This was supposed to be about Mr. Beak and the Sure Thing at the Willows—but the radio butted in—with the higher wisdom of these times—and reminded us of a few things— which no one knows anything about.

By H. B. W.

HOMELY COMFORT

SITTING BEFORE my humble fire-side last night I listened to the clamorous voices of this age, wafted over the ether by the ingenuity of man. What a peaceful night's entertainment the voices on the ether these days provide, what a comfort to a man who has sat down after a hard day's work and craves quiet and security, safe from the passions and the insanities of the world! Alas, even the home is no longer a sanctuary. The shrillest voices of a civilization in agony shriek in your living room, gibber—beside your own fireplace, and as you go to bed your ears are ringing with a Cassandra chorus, with the dread assurance from all sides that we are lost.

On the radio last night Premier Pattullo was telling British Columbia that a vast programme of public works would solve our problems, that nothing could put our people to work, since private industry lacked the necessary resources. A few minutes later Mr. Skinner, of the C.C.F., was tearing all such notions to tatters and proclaiming that only socialism would save.

I had tuned in on an American station meanwhile, and some gentleman was quoting the recent utterances of Herbert Hoover, who insists that only the preservation of rugged individualism will save us. A dreary voice in the Middle West was explaining what was going to happen on the stock market, as if that mattered, and down in California a fellow was preaching red communism with a nice cellophane wrapping, American style, so that people would get the idea without being shocked.

The newspaper in my hands said that Mr. E. W. Beatty had been warning Canada against interfering with business, while Mr. Gerry McGeer was predicting ruin unless the government provided a planned economy.

JOLLY AGE

WHAT AN AGE to live in! You can't escape it anywhere, this clamor of advanced economics, this jabber of high political science. No two men meet together on the street, without propounding a plan to end the depression. Planners talk about it while fox-trotting. On the Sidney bus which brings the country folk out this way every day you find fellows in overalls talking about the gold standard, farmers' wives, with baskets of eggs on their arms, discussing socialism, and poor clerks from the city asserting that we need a controlled inflation.

Yes, gold standards, socialism, inflation, plans, remedies, revolutions from people who five years ago had no notion what these things meant. Now they know the jargon, they have snatches of the whole truth, they perceive tiny portions of the entire picture, they fling economic terms about with a splendid abandon, they talk like senior bankers, soap box agitators and university professors, but do they really know any more about it than they did just five years ago, when the world was in the grip of the bull market, marching blithely towards the grand collapse of October, 1929?

I doubt it. Indeed, when I discuss these things with our statesmen here and in the national capital I find little to choose between them and the jolly economists of our Sidney bus. The terminology is a little better, the phrasing a little more grammatical, the pronouncements a little more impressive. But everywhere is the same utter confusion of ideas, the same ignorance of fundamental facts, the same feverish panaceas that would work if men were only angels instead of ruthless carnivores. THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By ALINE MICHAELIS

ADVICE

Ann pins a rose against her hair.
 Her grandma cautions, "Child, beware;
 But love has swift and ready wings!"
 Rob hums a song and shines his shoes.
 His grandma quavers, "Robert, choose
 For wife a wise and thrifty girl.
 Not one who sets your heart awhirl!"
 When Ann and Rob at dusk keep tryst
 The world takes on a golden mist;
 Fair things grow fairer, sweet more sweet
 Whenever Ann and Robert meet.
 Besides, what can old people know
 Of love, that sets the stars aglow?
 And so they wed for love alone
 As did their forbears, in years flown.

THE VICTORIA DAILY TIMES
 September 14, 1909
 (From The Times Files)

Steamers Princess Royal and Queen City arrived from the north this morning, the former bringing in 180 passengers from Skagway and way ports, while the smaller vessel has about half that many.

The ushering in of the motion picture season at the Victoria Theatre occurs this evening, and judging by the excellent programme the action could be crowned with success. The rendering of the illustrated songs will be the pleasant work of Mrs. Roy Troup, who has been persuaded to give her valuable services in this connection. The usual two hours' entertainment of animated pictures will be given, while the popular prices of admission will remain the same.

The subject of the films this week number ten, there being two illustrated songs, "Sweetheart, Won't You Come With Me to Dreamland?" and "Everybody's Happy When the Sun Shines."

The deer enclosure in Beacon Hill Park is to have its inmates increased. Two deer have arrived from Spokane and will be placed there. Superintendent England is making arrangements to have these two deer added to the permanent inhabitants of the enclosure.

The following judges are announced for the annual fair to commence Monday next at the fair grounds, Willows Beach, and to run the full week:
 Light horses—George Gray, Newcastle, Ontario.
 Heavy horses—W. Elliott, Galt, Ontario.
 Cattle, sheep and swine—Prof. Grisdale, Ottawa.
 Dairy produce—Miss Laura Rose, Guelph, Ontario.
 Fruit—J. S. Shepard, Salem, Oregon.
 Horse show—George Clay, W. Ellison, T. S. McCreath of Portland, and one other judge to be named.

Dahlia and Horse Show at Willows

Mayor Leeming Opens Flower Exhibition in Afternoon; Children's Horsemanship and Team Driving Featured Night Show; Poultry Results

The seventh annual show of the Victoria Dahlia Society was officially opened by Mayor Leeming yesterday afternoon. In the main building at the Victoria fair. All the annuals and other soft flowers had been removed the day before to make way for the second flower show. Though the wet weather had spoiled many blooms and prevented many from competing the show is one of the most successful ever held.

In his address Mayor Leeming congratulated the society on the magnificent show it had produced. He paid tribute to the exhibitors for their splendid co-operation, and spoke at length on the lovely display with its infinite variety of blooms.

The mayor also believed there was a general feeling among the citizens that the dahlia should become Victoria's civic flower, and he thought that from the progress made by local growers it would in time become the city's floral emblem. He congratulated local growers and gardeners on the wonderful strides they had made in dahlia raising, and reminded his audience that several beautiful varieties had been perfected locally.

Mayor Leeming was introduced by E. M. Whyte, president of the society, whose efforts have resulted in such a successful show. The mayor after his address shook hands with Frederic Hall, who brought the Burnaby district exhibit to the fair. Mr. Hall was loud in his praise of Victoria's horticultural achievements.

BEAUTIFUL FLOWERS

Melville Mayhew had the most beautiful dahlia bloom in the show. His lovely "New Glory" was an almost perfect blossom and has wine-colored petals, tipped with white.

The largest dahlia in the show was W. Elder's entry. His flower was a beautiful red "Satan" and measured fifteen inches from tip to tip. This dahlia was almost an inch and a half larger than any other blooms in the show.

The decorated table class had one of the largest number of entries in the show, and was undoubtedly the most spectacular feature. These tables were judged both in daylight and under artificial lamps. The pompoms were the most popular class as far as entries were concerned.

HORSE SHOW

In the evening at the fair the horse show again drew a large crowd. The feature proved to be the keen sense of horsemanship displayed by the children.

In the children's riding contest, the competitors were all under fifteen years of age, and the points were awarded for horsemanship only. The prizes sponsored by Mr. and Mrs. Norman Yarrow were won as follows: First, Barbara Jackson of Cobble Hill, on "Kittiwake"; second, Miss B. Hillina, on "Carry On"; and third, Master Norman Little, on "Pussy."

The winner in the children's jumping class, Chum Carley, on "Knobby," took his mount over the four jumps of three feet six inches with the ability of a veteran rider. Jack Russell of Vancouver, won second place, on "Tony," and Rawson Stewart was awarded third prize.

The handy hunters' jumping class was a difficult and complicated test. The horses had to clear six difficult obstacles and the winners after their performances deserved the cheers which the crowd gave them. The prizes, sponsored by Ald. T. W. Hawkins, were won as follows: First, Miss Josephine Rithet on "Nevada"; second, Mrs. D. B. Carley on "Pop Over"; and third, Mr. Bell on "Scotman."

The handling of entries in the road hack class was spectacular, the riders skillfully breaking their mounts down a steep bank into a testy canter, and then a gallop, at the command of the judge, Colonel Fry. Jack Russell of Vancouver was first on "Scotman"; Mrs. T. K. Matthews was second on "Tarascan"; and Miss Margaret Robertson third on "Solange."

The class for saddle horses was won by Miss Margaret Robertson, on Solange. Capt. T. Wilmost of Vernon, B.C., was adjudged second on Lapwing, and Miss Daphne Allen of Vancouver was third on Polly.

Some of the finest jumping in the show was seen in the last class when Miss Margaret McNeill carried off first prize on Scotsman; Ian Ross on Chennango won second place and Miss J. A. Rithet was third.

There was a thrill of excitement when the fine Clydesdale and Percheron teams came out for the four-horse driving competition.

A. J. Dell of the Crystal Dairy, Vancouver, carried off the first prize with his well-matched team of Clydesdales; A. C. Leslie and Sons of Watrous, Sask., won second prize with a fine Clydesdale team, and Robert Thorburn of Vancouver was awarded third place with his Clydesdales. D. F. Burge of Albany, Oregon, showed a team of dapple grey Percherons, and J. W. Munroe of Carstairs, Alberta, showed Clydesdales.

The show opened with a prize cattle parade, and all the aristocrats of the farm world who had been adjudged the best in the exhibition strutted their stuff before the admiring throng.

Watch Me Grow

"This SCARE On Wilshire Boulevard Sold Me"

"At the corner where Berendo St. meets Wilshire, a heavy sedan swerved wide into the Boulevard—doing '50' at least! No use slamming on the brakes; the only chance . . . shoot out in front of him. A split hair couldn't have gone between his front wheel and my rear bumper. Lucky? Sure. A good motor? You bet. And I've got a hunch a less powerful gasoline would have lost me those vital few inches I needed."

(from an actual letter in Shell Oil Company files at Los Angeles)

How much of a difference is there between gasolines....?

YOU FIND OUT IN THE "CLOSE SHAVES" ON THE ROAD!

It's when something unexpected happens—and it's an ounce of extra power that gets you by. That's when you realize the importance of those little differences between gasolines!

Super-SHELL is refined to give you reserve power for these driving emergencies. Ten of the little wastes that ordinary gasolines can cause are positively reduced.

It is an inviolable rule at Shell refineries that Super-SHELL must do all jobs well.

Must give you not just high anti-knock—and full mileage—but top speed—excellent startability—and great pick-up.

Super-SHELL is specially refined for balanced performance. It is made more concentrated by eliminating all waste parts—the gassy "tops", and sluggish "bottoms."

Every drop of Super-SHELL is the "heart-cut" of petroleum. That's why so many people say it is "the best gasoline you can buy." Try it in your own car today.

12 Years of DYSPEPSIA Ended in 4 Weeks

Deep-seated cases of dyspepsia, indigestion, acidity, flatulence, heart-burn, and even serious stomach troubles are constantly yielding to treatment by the formula of the Head Stomach Specialist of a famous London, England, Hospital. The formula, sold under the name, Maclean Brand Stomach Powder, is bringing about remarkably rapid recovery in one such case reported by Mrs. P. of Edgmont, England, who writes:

"I have had dyspepsia for 12 years and have been under five doctors and twice under hospital treatment. I did not know what it was to be without pain during that time. Then I was told about Maclean Brand Stomach Powder, which I have taken for 4 weeks. I feel as well now as when I was 20."

Get Maclean Brand Stomach Powder from your druggist. 75c per bottle, identified by the signature, "Dr. C. Maclean." Also in tablets. Never sold loose. Distributors: Rigo Agencies, Toronto.

YOUNG PEOPLE NAME LEADERS

The Young Peoples' Society of the Esquimalt United Church held their first meeting of the new season in their clubroom. The election of officers took place with the following results: President, Bert Hughes; Vice-president, Bill Young; Secretary, Marjorie Rood; Treasurer, Cathy Johnson; Publicity agent, Helen Rood; and Bill Young, organist, Kay Hughes.

The society decided to divide their meetings into four parts: Devotional, literary, missionary and social. The aim of the club this year is to raise the funds necessary to buy new hymnals for the church. The meeting was adjourned by Gordon Corless.

Women of Oxford Group to Study

Something vital and interesting in the way of Bible study will be the result of a meeting held by the women of the Oxford Group on Wednesday afternoon in the Y.W.C.A. As the afternoon is women's only free time, there will be held each Wednesday in the Y.W.C.A. commencing promptly at 2:30 p.m. Bible study of one hour, tea from 3:30 to 4 o'clock, and fellowship until 5:15 for all women who wish to group on Wednesday.

These gatherings are for the purpose of fostering in the entire women's fellowship, the close friendships existing in individual groups. It is hoped the weekly tea-parties will do for the women of Victoria what the men's luncheon has accomplished among men with limited time for sociability.

Starting with the first chapter of the Acts of the Apostles, one group next Wednesday will direct the study in which all are expected to participate. It is planned to study the Apostles, not as saints with a nimbus, but as frail human beings beset by personal faults and surrounded by a pagan world. Guests would do well to study beforehand some phase of the subject. They might ascertain who were the Apostles, their regular occupations, why they were temporarily suspended, and to whom the chapter is addressed.

Women's Groups in rotation will have charge of the study and fellowship each Wednesday. Agnes Campbell is arranging the first tea-party.

Writing in the eastern press, Mrs. Isabella Scott of Montreal treats of "the ordination of women for the ministry" as follows:

"Has the time not come to consider the whole question of women's place and standing in the United Church of Canada? Is it not an anomaly that a member of the church might be a member of Parliament or a senator and yet have no channel for the expression of her views and opinion in her own church?"

"The women of the church deserve and ought to have a definite place and proportional representation in every church court, not, however, by co-optation, which is quite unacceptable, but by election to represent their own sex. Whether or not all the women in the church are of interest, which really is, it is not just."

"As the General Council of the United Church of Canada will meet shortly in Kingston, when the question of the ordination of women will come up once more for discussion, a resume of the situation may be of interest. It will be remembered that in 1922 Miss Lydia Gruchy, B.A., after graduating in theology from the Manitoba College, was appointed as pastor to a charge of New Canadians in the northwest."

"Her congregation felt it a burden to be obliged to send long distances at considerable expense for an ordained minister to marry, baptize, etc., when necessary. So in 1926, at the first meeting of the General Council of the United Church of Canada, Miss Gruchy applied for ordination, but her case was referred to a committee, which reported at the next meeting of the General Council in Winnipeg in 1928 in such terms that the following resolution was passed: 'There is no bar in reason or religion to the ordination of women in the United Church of Canada.'"

"Miss Gruchy's record as a minister has been outstanding, and it can be truthfully said that it has been equalled by few and surpassed by none, but she is still unordained. If neither reason nor religion is the cause of this delay, may we ask what is keeping it back? Can there be a subtle influence at work behind the scenes, which succeeds in having the question sidetracked from time to time and referred to committees, congregations, presbyteries, conferences, etc.?"

SAW MISSING GIRL IN FILM

Philadelphia, Sept. 14.—On the momentary flicker of a news reel film Anne Little's family pins its hopes of seeing her alive again.

Anne, twenty-two, was on the liner Morro Castle when it burned. Her brothers, Harry and Jack, are sure they saw their sister, in a news reel, being carried from a rescue ship at Manassquan, N.J. She may be wandering somewhere alone, they think, scared from her harrowing experience.

TO HOLD BRIDGE AT "SCHUHUUM"

Camoun Chapter I.O.O.F. will hold a bridge luncheon at "Schuuum," Rockland Avenue, kindly offered by Miss Agnew, on Wednesday, October 31. Announcement to this effect was made at yesterday's meeting of the chapter at the home of Mrs. E. H. King, Harbinger Avenue. Reservations may be made by telephoning Mrs. D. W. Burnett, E0079.

The recent, Mrs. George Miles, presided during the business, which included reports from Mrs. A. H. C. Phillips on the Boy Scouts; Mrs. J. M. Newcombe on the Navy League and Mrs. V. Thorne, The Echoes. Mrs. A. E. Hopkins reported for the Local Council of Women and announced that a lecture will be held at the Empress Hotel on October 11, when Mrs. Donald Munday will be the speaker.

A notice of the semi-annual provincial meeting to be held in October at Chilliwack was received. Mrs. C. L. Campbell reported on the educational meeting held during the summer. Following the meeting, tea was served by the hostess.

Victoria Ladies' Choir—The Victoria Ladies' Choir resumed its rehearsals recently under the leadership of W. H. Muncy. Anyone wishing to join the choir is asked to send a self-addressed envelope to Mrs. W. G. Murgstoyd, 10 Linden Avenue.

Baptist Y.P.S.—The regular meeting of the Douglas Street Baptist Young People's Society will be held to-night at 7:30. Tom Cooper will be the speaker. A cordial invitation is extended to all young people of the church and community.

WAS A VISITOR HERE YESTERDAY

Mrs. Murray McLaren who left yesterday evening with her husband, Hon. Dr. Murray McLaren, Minister of Pensions and National Health, after spending a busy day here. Dr. McLaren visited Federal penitentiary wards in the Royal Jubilee Hospital and St. Joseph's Hospital, and expressed his satisfaction with conditions here.

A PRINCESS ON RELIEF

Photo shows Princess Alexandra, who once occupied a place in the household of the Czar, better known to her Canadian friends as Mrs. Cecil John Widdens, who has been placed on the relief rolls of the city of London, Ontario. She is the wife of an Englishman and the mother of an eleven-year-old boy who was born in Great Britain. Her plight came to light when the city council rejected the application of the family for transportation back to England.

WOMEN SEEK ORDINATION

Recognition By United Church of Miss Lydia Gruchy's Work Urged

Writing in the eastern press, Mrs. Isabella Scott of Montreal treats of "the ordination of women for the ministry" as follows:

"Has the time not come to consider the whole question of women's place and standing in the United Church of Canada? Is it not an anomaly that a member of the church might be a member of Parliament or a senator and yet have no channel for the expression of her views and opinion in her own church?"

"The women of the church deserve and ought to have a definite place and proportional representation in every church court, not, however, by co-optation, which is quite unacceptable, but by election to represent their own sex. Whether or not all the women in the church are of interest, which really is, it is not just."

"As the General Council of the United Church of Canada will meet shortly in Kingston, when the question of the ordination of women will come up once more for discussion, a resume of the situation may be of interest. It will be remembered that in 1922 Miss Lydia Gruchy, B.A., after graduating in theology from the Manitoba College, was appointed as pastor to a charge of New Canadians in the northwest."

"Her congregation felt it a burden to be obliged to send long distances at considerable expense for an ordained minister to marry, baptize, etc., when necessary. So in 1926, at the first meeting of the General Council of the United Church of Canada, Miss Gruchy applied for ordination, but her case was referred to a committee, which reported at the next meeting of the General Council in Winnipeg in 1928 in such terms that the following resolution was passed: 'There is no bar in reason or religion to the ordination of women in the United Church of Canada.'"

"Miss Gruchy's record as a minister has been outstanding, and it can be truthfully said that it has been equalled by few and surpassed by none, but she is still unordained. If neither reason nor religion is the cause of this delay, may we ask what is keeping it back? Can there be a subtle influence at work behind the scenes, which succeeds in having the question sidetracked from time to time and referred to committees, congregations, presbyteries, conferences, etc.?"

CLUB WILL PRODUCE "PIRATES OF PENANCE"

The Eurydice Art Club will produce the delightful Gilbert and Sullivan opera, "Pirates of Penance," during the coming season and plans for the production are well under way. The first rehearsal will be held on Tuesday evening next in the New Thought Hall at 7:30 o'clock, when all old and new members of the club will be welcomed. Mrs. W. B. McKicking is the president of the club.

Emmanuel W.A.—The monthly meeting of the Emmanuel Women's Auxiliary was held on Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Walter Wilson, 2327 Cedar Hill Road. There was a good attendance of members, and the president, Mrs. Violet Taylor, was in the chair. The devotional period was conducted by Mrs. A. H. Marmon. Plans were made for a concert to be held on October 29 and for the annual bazaar on December 1. To the close of the business session daily refreshments were served by the hostess.

SAW MISSING GIRL IN FILM

Philadelphia, Sept. 14.—On the momentary flicker of a news reel film Anne Little's family pins its hopes of seeing her alive again.

Anne, twenty-two, was on the liner Morro Castle when it burned. Her brothers, Harry and Jack, are sure they saw their sister, in a news reel, being carried from a rescue ship at Manassquan, N.J. She may be wandering somewhere alone, they think, scared from her harrowing experience.

SOCIAL SERVICE WORK NECESSARY

Many Family Problems in Greater Victoria Being Continually Handled

"It was only the tactful and delicate work performed by your investigators that kept my household together," wrote one woman recently to the Friendly Help Welfare Association, thanking the workers for their aid and co-operation in settling a difficult family situation.

This letter was filed in the social service department, under which such a job comes. Similar letters are being received every day from persons in Greater Victoria, who are extremely thankful to the trained case workers of the association for the good work they are doing.

This phase of the work is naturally tedious and takes a great deal of money and to enable it to go on the officers of the association, in conjunction with the welfare societies of Oak Bay, Saanich and Esquimalt will appeal to the generosity of the general public of Greater Victoria for $43,500, starting October 15.

Oak Bay United W.A.—Many plans for the winter were made at the regular meeting of the Oak Bay United W.A., held yesterday afternoon with Mrs. S. H. Orniston presiding. Arrangements for a guest tea, to be held at the church, on October 2, were made. Mrs. W. A. Jamieson will be the speaker at this tea. A congregational rally will be held on the evening of September 24 and in the afternoon and evening of December 9 a bazaar will be held.

HANDY HUNTER GETS OUT OF HAND

You can lead a horse to a fence, but once in a while he thinks it is just something to look at. Which explains why Miss Hope Gimbel is in mid-air alone instead of aboard the back of Weary River. Her spill occurred during the judging of the handy-hunters class at the North Shore Horse Show, Stony Brook, Long Island, U.S.A.

LOCAL AUTHORS PRODUCE PLAYS

Vancouver to See Three, Authors' Association Is Told at Meeting

The Authors' Association met yesterday evening in the I.O.E. headquarters, Union Building. J. P. Hicks was in the chair. Miss Audrey Wood, acting secretary, read a letter from the national secretary, Howard Angus Kennedy, with a resume of the summer's activities. Mr. Hicks, on behalf of the membership, thanked Mrs. W. S. Gore and Mrs. Fern, who were hostesses to the branch during the summer holidays.

It was heard with interest that plays by M. Isabel Angus, Myrtle E. Baine and L. Baine-Wheeler are shortly to be produced in Vancouver. "The Enchanted Island," by Fannie Louise Apjohn, sister of one of the members, was shown by the president, and an article on "How to Write the Short Story," by Margaret Deland, was read by Mrs. Ebbes-Canavan in the section of the programme which calls for a "craft talk." Poems by the late Jean Blewett and a brief sketch of her life were also given.

C. C. Pemberton paid glowing tribute to the late John Howe, upon his outstanding achievements in the cause of the history of British Columbia and his services in the archives. Donald A. Fraser read from two of Mr. Howe's poems lovely examples of his spiritual outlook and his deep understanding of nature. "The Arbutus Tree" and "A March Sabbath Dawn." Mr. Fraser spoke in appreciation also of the late J. R. Simon, a friend of the Victoria and Islands Branch, and the late Alderman R. T. Williams, who had a special claim upon the interest of the local branch, through his early association with the art of bookbinding, and also as a writer and as a collector of information of old-time Victoria, was spoken of by Mr. Pemberton. Hugh Croxall spoke on the "Making of a Play." He analyzed the necessary factors in a successful play, and the importance of an attractive title was dwelt upon.

Miss Catherine Craig recited two of Pauline Johnson's poems, "The Legend of Qu'Appelle Valley" and "The Castle Thier." Mr. Armstrong, on behalf of the meeting, thanked those who had contributed to the programme.

peaches may offer a flavorful addition to the menu of the child past two.

All fruits should be fresh and sound, neither too ripe nor too green. They should be washed and peeled, and for the young child they may be mashed. If in doubt as to the wisdom of including any fruit in the diet, cook and sieve it. Both raw and cooked fruits should be given daily as cooked fruits (with the exception of cooked tomatoes) cannot be called upon to furnish the essential vitamin C.

Mrs. E. M. Hornbrook of Woking, Surrey, England, is visiting the city and staying with her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Gane, 1126 Dallas Road.

Mrs. J. W. Benning entertained at the tea house this afternoon at her home on Rockland Avenue in honor of Mrs. W. E. Frick of Sevier, Penn., who has been spending the summer here with Mrs. Benning, and who will leave on Tuesday next for her home in the United States. Mrs. Benning's nephews, Masters William, Dick and George Frick, who have also been spending the summer here with Mrs. Benning, will leave with Mrs. Frick for their home in the States.

The Sketch Club of the Island Arts and Crafts had a delightful afternoon's work in the lovely gardens of Mr. and Mrs. J. Newberry Hatch, Gonzales Hill, on Monday afternoon. Following the sketching Mrs. Hatch entertained her many guests at tea in the sunroom, when some additional guests, Mrs. F. V. Longstaff, Miss Hornall and Mrs. Colman, were invited to meet the members of the Sketch Club. Mrs. Hatch was assisted by Mrs. E. H. Bird, and an interesting comparison of sketches was made. Members are asked to meet at the clubhouse on Monday next, at 2 o'clock, to proceed to Chinatown and sketch from different vantage points there.

Among the guests registered at the Dominion Hotel are: Mr. H. B. Irwin, Mr. and Mrs. N. M. Wright, Mr. Lewis Smith, Mr. Vincent Hunt, Mr. P. O. Fraser, Vancouver; Mr. D. D. B. PLUNKETT POSTPONES TALK

The address which was to have been given by D. B. Plunkett, M.P., before the Women's Conservative Association yesterday evening has been postponed until Thursday evening, September 27. Mr. Plunkett was to have spoken last evening, but was unable to do so, owing to the visit in the city of Hon. Dr. Murray MacLaren, Minister of Pensions and National Health, Ottawa.

Mrs. Kate Palmer, the president, was in the chair, and much business was discussed. Letters included one from the Local Council of Women, welcoming the association into affiliation, and from the Victorian Order of Nurses, expressing thanks for a donation.

Arrangements were completed for a luncheon and card party, to be held at the Hudson's Bay store on December 4, and members were urged to do everything possible to stimulate interest among their friends. A beautiful sweater was donated by Mrs. Plummer before she left for England, and will be disposed of for the funds of the association.

Plans were made to hold the annual meeting on Thursday, October 11.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

FEED BABY FRUIT FOR VITAMIN C. Because fruits contribute minerals of various kinds and the vitally important live element, vitamin C, both cooked and raw fruits must be a daily part of the growing child's diet.

Fruits offering the maximum supplies of vitamin C are oranges and tomatoes (these last either from ripe, raw tomatoes, or cooked, canned ones) and lemon and grapefruit. Orange juice is so well liked by infants that it is the first choice as a medium of furnishing vitamin C. Tomato juice must be offered in twice the quantities as are necessary for orange juice. Lemon juice is often utilized as an ingredient of the formula. Grapefruit juice is for older children.

TEST OUT DIGESTION. After infancy the variety of fruits is limited only by the child's age, the bounties of the season and by individual digestions. All rules about what fruits to serve and which ones to avoid must of necessity wait upon individual tastes and sensitivities. Some digestions spurn what others accept with relish and benefit.

Juices which may have to be called upon to pinch hit for oranges during off seasons when the fruit is sour or scarce, are ripe pineapple juice, scraped apples, juice of lemons or grapefruit and juice of white grapes. All of these may be tried in small amounts, well diluted, and their effects noted.

GIVE DRIED FRUITS SECOND YEAR. After the first year the child's fruit rations may be enlarged to include not only fresh cooked fruits, but dried cooked ones. Dried fruits, after careful washing in several waters, should be cooked next morning in a small amount of water until tender enough to press through a sieve. A small portion of sugar may be added to them. The best quality of peaches, apricots, apples and prunes should be chosen. Inferior grades may be preserved by methods which make them of dubious value in the child's diet. For lists of suitable fruits for children and "Vegetables Suitable to Child's Diet" which may be had for the usual self-addressed, stamped envelope.

FOR CHILD PAST TWO. Figs, dates and raisins may be run through the food chopper and added to the morning cereal. Ripe, raw bananas may substitute for cereal at any meal. Sound, ripe pears and ripe

Married Flirts

by MABEL MELLITT
© 1934 M.E.A. Service, Inc.

She didn't want to sound spiteful; after all, Marko had admired Gypsy. So she amended hastily, "such a pity she married that young nobody. Of course he's all right—well born and of family, but he'll never get anywhere."

She sipped her tea with the superior air she reserved for people who hadn't much of the world's goods. "Funny—I always thought Gypsy would do something wonderful," she went on, wanting to seem gracious in her lover's eyes. "Become a singer or an actress or something. She had talent and looks but marriage simply squelched her."

"Pretty little thing," Marko commented idly. "Lovely eyes. And most graceful hands in the world." It didn't like this Marko would have to be taught (after, of course) that you didn't say things like that to one woman about an absent member of the sex.

"Really," her languor was distinctly forbidding. She glanced about her cautiously. "I'll go on without you," she whispered. "Won't do to be seen together just before news of the break leaks out. You never know when one of those awful column writers is lurking about. They seem to be everywhere."

Lila went through the marble and gilt foyer alone, very slim and elegant in her pale costume, the fur making a dark background for her lovely face. Eyes were turned as she passed and admiring glances followed her. She enjoyed every bit of the wheeling and weaving Mrs. Marko brought her. She would have more of it. Admiration, adulation from all sides.

She went back to the apartment in a taxi, although the long greyhound car just beyond the awning entrance was hers for a beckoning finger. Some day soon that car would be hers and the square-jawed Finn at the wheel would take her orders.

"To Tiffany's," she could imagine herself, speaking through the silver tube, command quietly. She could even see the rings that would be laid out for her Christmas emeralds, rubies, star sapphires. There would be narrow bracelets fashioned of stones clearer than clear water.

Meantime she fumbled in the pale leather bag for change. The taxi man thanked her for the tip and she went swiftly into the foyer. It would be lonely to-night. Marko dared not call and she had made no arrangements to dine with any one. She shivered at the prospect of a solitary dinner.

She rang up several people she knew, feverishly and in haste. Greed, Chloe and Dick, Van Ness. One was engaged and the others were out of town.

On a sudden impulse she dialled Gypsy's number. Would be a lark, she reflected, to get luck with the Weavers this night—see how the other half lived.

But the bell rang dimly, rang and rang and rang. Gypsy's line was plainly deserted. There was trouble, real trouble that late April afternoon in the house of Weaver.

CHAPTER XXXIII
After endless ages it was morning in the shabby house on Upper Grand Street. The light from the back room had been rustled to the door and conferred with the day nurse, a small, competent, Scot with white hair, Gypsy, staggering with fatigue, had caught the words, "question of hours," and again felt that wild, shivering terror.

Harvey Morrell, the centre of all this concern, lay white, silent, voiceless on the big bed. The covers were drawn up to his chest. The rigid, hospital routine prevailed, lending an air of terrible strangeness to the white, shabby room with the curtained bay window. The door was ajar, white scrub on the familiar cherry table with a glass, a spoon and a covered can. There was a clinical thermometer on the bedside table, beside the nurse's watch and the patient's chart. Everything was efficient, quiet, orderly, striking terror to the heart of the slim girl with the tumbled dark curls.

Mrs. Morrell had at last been persuaded to lie down and rest, but Gypsy still sat, one foot curled under her, ebschirli fashion, on the window seat. The handkerchief that she pressed to her eyes now and then was soiled, and she had promised to be as quiet as a mouse and she kept that promise. But every now and again her eyes would flash and she would press that damp, folded handkerchief to them mechanically.

About 10 o'clock the specialist from the city came, a grey, tall man with piercing eyes. Gypsy had waited in the hall with her mother as he conferred with Dr. Bannerman. She knew now how a prisoner must feel as he waits the jury's verdict.

It was terrible—this waiting. Her mother sat in a low chair, twisting and untwisting her handkerchief, never lifting stricken eyes. When at last the doctor opened Gypsy felt she could not endure much more of this. The two men emerged together, talking in low tones. Dr. Bannerman, the specialist bowed to the women vaguely and went on talking to his colleague. They were ignored, completely shut out.

"I can't bear it," she whispered faintly. Her mother rose and faced Dr. Bannerman. "What do you think now, doctor?" "His pulse is weaker."

Mrs. Morrell's mother and Gypsy hated both these big men with their calm faces and their calm eyes. Why didn't they do something? "What are you waiting for?" the older woman's voice faltered on the words but she went on courageously, "what are the chances now?"

The specialist looked at her kindly. He began to explain. There was some pressure, he said. An operation might relieve it. But dared they chance that? He became highly technical and the woman's faded, intelligent eyes never left his face. "You mean he has a chance?" The specialist lifted his shoulders in the barest suggestion of a shrug. "He may have. I'll look in to-night. If there is no change we'll have to go in and see what the trouble is."

"If you think he'll come out of it, doctor?" She appealed to the other man, her lifelong friend and physician. "I'm hoping for the best," he patted her arm. "He's having the best of care, remember that. We're doing everything in our power."

They had to be content with that. The two doctors went away in Bannerman's big car and the house-keepers came and went on quiet feet. Once the baby wailed and was hushed quickly and Gypsy knew in a dream that Mrs. Pettigill had carried him off with her for the afternoon. Nothing was quite real to-day. The sun, the clouds wheeled in a blue sky, the postman's whistle, Gypsy whispered that someone wanted her on the telephone and she answered dazedly. "Hello, Hello."

"This is Hunt. I'm terribly sorry I've only just heard . . . Who was Hunt? Oh, someone in another life. A brown, lean, hard, young man with hungry eyes and a pleasant voice, someone who had asked her (hearts) to dine and go to the theatre with him. There was a curly haired young woman in that dream, too, herself, mopping her eyes and weeping because it rained and she had no one to talk to over a grate fire. What a fool that girl had been, making mountains out of molehills! When real trouble was so dreadful and so inescapable what a fool that girl had been!"

"I'm sorry. I forgot about it," was all Gypsy could think of saying. Hunt wanted to know if there was anything he could do. Errands. Medicine. Anything. He would be at their service.

He was kind, Gypsy thought, replacing the receiver. Everyone was kind. Gypsy thought that they couldn't help. Only God could help them now. She began to pray disconnectedly.

That wasn't a real prayer, but maybe God would hear and understand. The moments dragged by. It was noon and the red-haired nurse went down to her lunch, bright, competent and alert. Mrs. Morrell sat at the patient's bedside, her face haggard.

"You go and eat when Miss McPherson does," she had commanded. And Gypsy had to admit that of the young nurse. All her questions were turned aside with professional skill and confidence. She would wait until the doctor all that, mustn't she? She really couldn't say.

Miss McPherson had a healthy appetite. She ate a chop and a baked potato and spinach, and apple sauce. And Gypsy hated her. After she had returned to her post Gypsy stuck her head around the swinging door and muttered, "You eat something or you get down sick yourself, Miss Gypsy."

There were times later that Gypsy had to do. Even in a house of ill-repute and bad luck and bad luck sent out. The necessity of concentrating on a few small tasks cleared her head and partly drove away the sense of futility and helplessness. She had experienced ever since coming into the house the night before.

Uncle Wiggly's Lost Squirrels

By HOWARD R. GARE
When Uncle Wiggly hopped past the Hollow Swamp School one morning it was before the school was open. There were many boys and girl animals, among them several of Uncle Wiggly's friends. They were all looking at him and running about the yard and singing. "Uncle Wiggly, we are so glad to see you!"

"Thank you," said Uncle Wiggly. He hopped nearer to listen and heard this: "Then we can play play play!" "Then we can play play play!" the rabbit gentleman as he gently twined his pink tail around his neck and of the first week of school, after the long summer vacation, and yet the children are already thinking of school, when there is no school, and they can play. I should think they had enough of play at the seashore of the mountains, wherever they were on their vacations."

WORDS COMMENT
"Oh, little ones never get enough of play," said a little voice down in the grass outside the school yard. Uncle Wiggly looked and saw a small worm crawling along. "I think you are right, Mr. Worm," said the rabbit gentleman. "You aren't as tanned as my bunnies are from sitting on the grass. Don't you have any vacation?"

"Oh, yes, I had a fine vacation," chuckled the white worm. "I am just back from it."

"Where did you spend your vacation?" asked Uncle Wiggly as the animal boys and girls gathered about him. "I spent it in the chestnut grove," said the worm. "I just got out."

"Oh, yes, I know the chestnut grove," said Uncle Wiggly. "Well, I suppose that is a good place for a worm. But why did you leave your suit?"

"Well, came the answer, 'I had it there wasn't much meat left—only the brown shell. So when the shell was eaten through, I dropped out and crawled away in the grass.'"

"A little squirrel boy named Johnnie Bushnell," was the reply. "You know squirrels are as fond of nuts as we worms are. I know them well and I was in to say their reasons to the Lady Mouse Teacher."

"No, and get for his brother Billy," said Uncle Wiggly. "You know Johnnie has a brother Billy?" "Yes, I know them well," said Uncle Wiggly. "Do you know them?"

Both squirrels yesterday were in the woods where the chestnut trees grow," said the worm. "They gathered a few nuts and brought to school this morning. They also brought me within a nut but they didn't know it then. I popped out late."

"Where are Johnnie and Billy now?" asked Uncle Wiggly. "They are in the chestnut grove," said the worm. "I heard them say they were going back to the woods for more nuts. That's the way with squirrels."

TEACHERS SCAMPER OUT
Then the worm crawled away and Uncle Wiggly was going to hop along and look for more nuts. But he was stopped by a tall, alert, schoolmaster. "What have you to say to me, Mr. Worm?" said the schoolmaster. "I saw you from the window and ran to tell you Johnnie and Billy must have been lost on their vacation."

BRIDGE
By Webster
Descriptions of the first race between the Rainbow and the Endeavour for the America's Cup head an interesting schedule of broadcasts to-morrow morning and afternoon. Advance notices call for an NBC-KOMO broadcast of the famous yacht race at 7.15 o'clock, Victoria time, and three air periods devoted to the race by the Columbia Broadcasting System.

The CBS-KOL network will be given over to the contending yachts at 9 o'clock, 9.45 o'clock and 11.30 o'clock, all Victoria time.

A running description of the final of the United States amateur golf championship is scheduled between 12 and 1 o'clock, Pacific standard time, but it is not yet known whether this golfing treat will be routed out west.

HORSE RACE
The advance programme calls for a CBS-KOL broadcast of the Futurity Stakes, richest race in the world for two-year-olds, at 12 o'clock, Victoria time. However, a summary of the golf final is scheduled for 1.45 o'clock, Victoria time, over CBS-KOL.

A play-by-play broadcast of the thrilling East-West polo match, postponed from last Saturday on account of the weather, is carded for 1.45 o'clock, Victoria time, over NBC-KOMO. This match brings together men who are undoubtedly among the greatest polo players in the world.

Musical people will be specially interested in the 1934-35 premiere of "The Rocky Revue," which under the direction of "Rocky" himself will commence at 4 o'clock, Victoria time, over the CBS-KOL network. Personalities on the opening programme will include John Evans, Toronto tenor; Gus Rupp, Philadelphia artist; the Rosyaires, male quartette; Aimee Deloro, coloratura soprano, and famed Reinald Werrenrath, baritone.

Buy the Best
Low prices attract attention but fine quality is the best 'bargain' when it comes to tea.

Fine tea is richly flavoured, clear as crystal and healthful. Common tea is merely an indifferent beverage.

'SALADA' TEA

Sister MARY'S KITCHEN

CIDER MORE THAN DRINK

By MARY E. DAGUE

Sweet cider, generally considered a beverage, is also an inexpensive way of adding variety to autumn menus. Our grandmothers considered boiled cider indispensable to their mince meat and apple butter, and we might do worse than take a leaf from their book.

You will find bottled boiled cider on your grocer's shelves and you can make it at home, too, if you want to take the time. Cider for boiling must be fresh from the press. Fill a preserving kettle with sweet cider. As the cider boils away add more and keep replenishing until the whole kettle of cider begins to thicken and becomes syrupy. Continue boiling without adding more cider until thick as molasses. Be careful that the cider does not scorch during the last part of the cooking. Pour into hot sterilized cans and seal.

The old rules for boiling cider used four parts of sweet cider to make one part of boiled cider. One cup of boiled cider will season three mince pies. Cider frappe is a modern concoction that is delicious with ham and pork roasts.

CIDER FRAPPE
Four cups sweet cider, 1 cup cold water, 1 cup orange juice, 1/2 cup lemon juice, 1/2 cup sugar.
Make a syrup of sugar and water. Cool and add to cider with lemon and orange juice. Freeze until firm. Serve in apples that have been hollowed out to form cups. Rub out surface of apples with lemon juice to prevent discoloring.

CIDER SALAD
This is a delicious salad for early fall days. One tablespoon granulated gelatine, 2 tablespoons cold water, 1 1/2 cups sweet cider, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 6 whole cloves, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1/2 cup nut meats, 1/2 cup diced celery, 1 cup white grapes, lettuce salad dressing.
Soften gelatine in cold water. Combine sugar, salt, cloves and cider and bring to the boiling point. Strain over gelatine and stir until dissolved. Add lemon juice. When beginning to thicken add nuts, celery and grapes which have been skinned and seeded. Turn into a mold and let stand on ice until chilled and firm. Unmold.

CLUB SHOCKED INTO SILENCE

Three Robbers Hold Up Women's Gathering and Steal $300

Associated Press
Chicago, Sept. 14.—Three robbers yesterday evening achieved a feat often thought impossible—they forced 100 women to remain speechless for several minutes.

Intruding a meeting of the Polish Women's Alliance, they demanded contents of the treasury's strong box, in which reposed more than $300 in monthly dues.

The treasurer handed over the money without a word. "Give me that ring," said one of the robbers, pointing to the treasurer's diamond ring. Speechless, she gave up her jewelry. No further words were spoken during the hold-up, and the robbers fled.

Then the women made up for lost time.

MEXICO PROTESTS TO WASHINGTON
Associated Press
Mexico City, Sept. 14.—The Mexican ambassador to the United States was instructed yesterday to protest to the Washington government against bringing the names of President Abelardo Rodriguez and other Mexican officials into the Senate committee's arms investigation hearings at Washington.

Dr. Jose Manuel Puig Casauranc, Secretary of Foreign Relations, said the protest would "insist that it is necessary that the character of the chief executive of any nation be held in respect by any organ or dependency of another government."

Not to Our Knowledge Have Lowndes' Hand-tailored Suits Ever Been Sold at Such a Low Price!

This well-known maker of fine, hand-tailored clothes has for years been producing the better garments for many recognized stores throughout the country. This sale will produce some of the finest garments it has been our pleasure to offer. Come to-morrow, early—and see this new way of making honest-to-goodness clothes.

Twelve Good Reasons Why You Should Treat Yourself To Hand-tailored Clothes!

- 1 Hand-padded collar — fits better and has smarter rolled effect.
- 2 Hand-padded lapel — always retains bench tailored, good appearance.
- 3 Hand-padded hump front — gives coat comfort, grace and softness.
- 4 Hand-made coat edges — are very thin and will not swell.
- 5 Hand-basted shoulders and under collar — retains snugness and neck.
- 6 Hand-felled collar top and bottom — holds the original shape and smart finish.
- 7 Hand-made button holes — wear longer.
- 8 Hand-felled trouser curtain — keeps waist snug and neat.
- 9 Hand-sewn buttons — heavy linen thread used in hand sewing, prevents lost buttons.
- 10 Hand-felled body and sleeve lining — will never drop when putting on or taking off, coat and body lining won't sag below edge of coat.
- 11 Hand-off pressing — gives lasting shape to the fine tailoring.
- 12 You can play a vigorous game of golf or indulge in a little private wrestling practice without injuring the appearance of the garment. It's the "making" that counts in "bench-tailored" clothes.

In estimating the number of lines in an advertisement, count five words for the first two lines and seven words for each line thereafter. This is not an absolute guide to the number of lines, as depending on the length of the individual words.

The Times will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion of any advertisement ordered for more than one week. Any claim for rebate on account of errors or omissions must be made within thirty days from the date of the same, otherwise the claim will not be allowed.

Advertisers who desire to have replies addressed to a box at the Times Office and forwarded to their private address. A charge of 10c is made for this service.

Subscribers wishing their addresses changed should notify this office as well as the carrier. If your Times is missing, phone E4175 before 9 p.m. and a copy will be sent by special messenger.

EMPIRE STARS SMART REVUE

"The Penthouse Follies" Opens Victoria Engagement of Three Days

The second of the de luxe vaudeville attractions to appear in Victoria this season, "The Penthouse Revue," opened at the Empire Theatre this afternoon and will show again twice this evening, as well as to-morrow and Monday. It comes to Victoria with the high recommendation of theatrical audiences in many of the large Pacific Coast cities.

Featured with this revue is Arthur Glasson and his Manhattan Serenaders. This orchestra has played over the leading eastern radio stations and has also made personal appearances in the ballrooms of the Biltmore Hotel in New York and the Stevens Hotel in Chicago. A number of the latest dance hits and several novelty numbers will be played in Victoria by this aggregation of splendid musicians.

Paige and Jewett will appear in a European novelty act. A musical act will be performed by Glasson and Allyn. George Latour and his company will do a series of clever and mystical tricks. Hal and Baby Crider give a smart dance and comedy number. A flash dancing act will be presented by Billy Joy and his company.

The costumes are colorful and ultra-modern, the scenery is attractive and a splendid entertainment is promised all Empire Theatre patrons this week-end.

On the screen will be shown "The Black Cat," with Boris Karloff and Bela Lugosi.

Jean Harlow To Play Here

"The Girl from Missouri," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture that opens to-morrow at the Capitol Theatre, brings Jean Harlow back to the screen after an absence of eight months.

In her new starring vehicle, the popular Miss Harlow plays the role of a girl who embarks upon a social-climbing career because she is determined to get financial security and position along with her marriage ring.

The picture fills with lightning rapidly from wacky penitence to the pleasure palaces of Florida and back again.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE

"Such Women Are Dangerous," the Fox Film release starring Warner Baxter, opened at the Playhouse Theatre yesterday. This new, crisp comedy-drama presents Baxter in a delightful role as a bachelor-novelist.

He has three charming leading ladies: Rosemary Ames, Rochelle Hudson and Mona Barrie.

Nine million women read this young novelist's books, and admire him from afar. Three women, who are directly concerned with the love story he writes. His secretary, secretly in love with him, tries to protect him from the love of two other women, one a young girl who has come to seek his advice in regard to her writing ability, and the other an opera singer who is already married.

The film was produced by Al Rocco, and James Flood directed.

COLUMBIA THEATRE

Colonel J. C. "Buffalo" Jones, great hunter and adventurer, was the first man to recognize the literary genius of Zane Grey, whose novel, "The Mystery Rider," has just been filmed by Paramount.

The picture is to be shown at the Columbia Theatre to-day. After reading a copy of "Betty Zane," privately published, "Buffalo" Jones hired the author to write up one of his expeditions. Out of this trip came several stories, among them "The Call of the Canyon," "Heritage of the Desert," "Riders of the Purple Sage" and others.

"CAT'S PAW" AT DOMINION

Harold Lloyd Has Leading Role in Clarence B. Keland's Mystery Story

There will be no more two-year lapses between productions for Harold Lloyd.

The comedian, who has just brought to the screen Clarence Budington Kelland's popular Saturday Evening Post serial, "The Cat's Paw," which is now playing at the Dominion Theatre, inaugurates a new policy with the release of this comedy. The story is the first Lloyd has ever purchased. Heretofore, all his comedies have been filmed from ideas suggested by himself, and developed by the comedian and his staff.

In keeping with the trend of pictures, Lloyd, beginning with "The Cat's Paw," will go in more for story characterization than for gag comedies. This does not mean abandonment of his main purpose, the creation of laughs, for in "The Cat's Paw" there are as many laughs as he ever put into a picture. But they will be obtained in a more legitimate way.

JUDGMENT IN JONES ESTATE
Court Decision on Ownership of Stock Given
Mr. Justice H. B. Robertson today handed down judgment in the Stephen Jones estate application, heard last week and involving the ownership of blocks of stock bought in the names of as gifts for them.
The certificates of these shares had been endorsed by the owners so that the dividends were collected by the deceased, who paid both provincial and federal income taxes on them. The judge ruled that the shares standing in the name of Elizabeth Margaret Jones, Frances Elizabeth Jones and Stephen Jones Jr. belong to each as named; also, that the shares purchased in the name of Howard Jones, another son, but transferred into the name of the father, belong to Howard.
"It is clear that when a gift is made by a father to his child, that child has the exclusive property in it," the judge said. "A gift cannot be revoked without the infant's consent." The judge ordered the costs of the case to be paid by the four lawyers took part: A. D. Macfarlane, K.C., for Howard Jones; H. B. Robertson, K.C., for the trustees of the Stephen Jones estate; H. G. Lawson, K.C., for Elizabeth Margaret Jones, the widow; Stephen Jones and Frances Jones, adult children; and Cleve G. White, for D. C. Cameron, guardian of the infant children, Mildred and Margaret.

TOLMIE SPEAKS AT LUNCHEON
Has Never Seen a Finer Fair He Tells Stockmen at Luncheon
When I was Minister of Agriculture in the federal government many years ago, I opened exhibitions from three Rivers to Vancouver Island, yet I have never seen a finer fair than this one," declared Hon. S. F. Tolmie at the annual stockmen's dinner held this afternoon at the Victoria fair. "But we do not get the support from the city we deserve."
Dr. Tolmie stated that it had become an annual pleasure with him to address these meetings.
"I was once Premier of this province, but I got kicked out on November 4 last year, and I feel as though I have got out of jail," he said. "I have got out of jail, but I have not got out of the province. The improved condition at the present time is due largely to mining development, which has also been greatly assisted by the railway."

STEEPLECHASE IS SUGGESTED
Return of amateur steeplechasing and polo to Victoria was foreseen by Alderman J. D. Hunter, guest speaker at the horsemen's luncheon at the Willows yesterday.
The alderman reviewed steeplechases of forty years ago here, when amateur riders on local mounts cleared hedges and ditches in the territory which is now the Colwood golf course. There was a abundant ground for that sport still in the Langford plains, he believed.
He also believed the Willows oval might be improved for polo ground, but did not commit the council to any promise to carry out any work on that ground.
The alderman believed the two sports of great interest to the public and spoke of the return to popularity of polo in the United States, where it has been taken from the list of exclusive sports for wealthy people and returned to a place where it could be played by those of lesser means.
After commending the fine standard of animals on view at the Willows, Alderman Hunter remarked that the Victoria was the only city on the Pacific Coast which ran a horse show in conjunction with its fair.

LAST RITES SATURDAY

FAY LAST TRIBUTE
Funeral service for Mrs. Annie Dorothy Lowe took place yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. E. M. Willis officiating. The casket was covered with many beautiful tributes. The hymns sung were "Lead, Kindly Light" and "Abide With Me." Following were pallbearers: C. Rowe, J. Coles, Sgt.-Major Marchant and T. Grenwell, the last two named representing the Army Service Corps. Interment was in Ross Bay Cemetery.

August Relief Figures Down
Warns Against Fast Driving
Speeding Car More Dangerous Weapon Than Fire-arm, Says Magistrate
The recent number of accidents in Victoria has been a pleasurable and they were nearly all due to fast driving, Magistrate Jay stated in the City Police Court this morning in giving judgment in the case of Dr. Thomas Mercer who was fined $30 for driving to the common danger.
Constable Thomas Banister testified he passed Dr. Mercer west on Fort Street through "The Dardanelles" to Cook Street at a speed ranging from forty to forty-five miles an hour.
The magistrate pointed out that persons were not only being seriously injured by fast driving but were being killed.
"If people did not drive so fast there would not be so many accidents," he said. Drivers were not realizing their responsibility for "a car is a more dangerous weapon than a firearm."
Roy Munzer appeared for the accused, pleading guilty, but pointing out his client had a clear record of sixteen years' driving.
A similar charge against Thomas Johnson was dismissed when the accused was given the benefit of the doubt brought out in the evidence which indicated the motorcycle constable might have been mistaken in the identity of the accused's car. The constables testified the accused had driven along Equulmalt Road from the city and entered the highway by way of Catherine Street. R. C. Lowe appeared for the defence.

CONDITION OF P.G.E. IS GOOD
Hon. John Hart Impressed With State of Government-owned Line
Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, and a director of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway, said this morning he had found conditions on the line surprising good. The minister made a tour of inspection this week.
This year, he declared, the P.G.E. would earn $100,000 over its operating expenses. The money would be available to the government, which includes $300,000 on three new bridges which have become necessary.
"I was surprised to discover the splendid shape the line is in," he said. "The road bed has been kept in good repair and the rolling stock is also in fine condition. I was greatly impressed with the service and the courtesy and loyalty shown by the entire personnel."
Mr. Hart explained it was some years since he had been over the line, and his trip had given him a new outlook on the value of the railway to the province. It would be a good idea if all members of the Legislature made the journey to see for themselves how it is operated. He will have something to say in this connection at the next session, he intimated.
The minister can see little value in extending the line to Prince George. The improved condition at the present time is due largely to mining development, which has also been greatly assisted by the railway.

HOUSE ROBBED, MONEY FOUND
Thief Who Prowled Residence Left Loot Cashed in Backyard
A thief who yesterday evening robbed the home of E. J. Jones, 265 West Street, of $50, was apparently frightened off by the arrival home of a resident of the premises and left the money behind to pick up later, in fear of being caught with it.
According to a police report Mr. Jones reported at 8.15 o'clock this morning that a prowler had been around his house. Constables John Blackstock and Reg. Lanning arrested the thief and discovered that $50 had been stolen from a cupboard in a bedroom between 7.30 and 11 o'clock yesterday evening.
Miss S. Brown, from whose bedroom the money was taken, had returned at 11 o'clock and heard a tapping on a window. She saw nothing, but after she awoke she discovered the money was missing.
Police had no success with the case until 5.30 this morning when Constable Mark Wilkinson, searching the grounds with Miss Brown, found the envelope containing the money between a butter box and a barrel of manure.
Apparently the thief had cached the money away, intending to return another time and get it.

FRUIT MARKET PLAN OFFERED
Provincial Board Considers Scheme For Dealing With Okanagan Output
The scheme for fully controlling the tree fruit output of the Okanagan is rapidly approaching fruition, it was indicated at the Parliament Buildings this morning. The growers have laid their plans before the provincial marketing board and approval is anticipated shortly.
What this is doing the provincial board is expected to confer upon the local commodity board appointed by the federal authorities the power to control distribution within the province.
In explaining this a government spokesman denied there was any confusion as to the working of the Marketing Act.
In setting up the machinery to control fruit marketing, it was explained, the first step had been to submit the scheme to the federal authority. This was approved and a board created with power to control production, distribution, including marketing.
So far as marketing within the province is concerned, the scheme was explained, the first step had been to submit the scheme to the federal authority. This was approved and a board created with power to control production, distribution, including marketing.

MRS. D. SPENCER LAD TO REST
Big Congregation Pays Last Tribute to Respected Pioneer
In the presence of a large congregation which represented every section of the community, including the provincial government, the city, church and benevolent organizations, as well as many private citizens, the funeral of Mrs. David Spencer, pioneer resident who passed away Tuesday at her home, 920 Moss Street.
Rev. E. F. Church was in charge of the simple service, in which the choir led the singing of the hymns, "O For Thousand Tongues to Sing" and "My God, the Spring of All My Joys."
Rev. Daniel Walker read the two Scriptural selections, Psalm cxi ("I Love the Lord") and, Psalm cxli ("The Lord is My Shepherd"), and Rev. Dr. W. J. Sippell gave a prayer.
Sixty-five members of the Spencer family occupied pews in the front of the church, and the entire western section of the auditorium was reserved for the staff of David Spencer Limited, 225 of whom were present.
Prior to the church service, a brief service was held at the family residence, Rev. Thomas H. McCrossan of Seattle, a son-in-law of the late Mrs. Spencer, officiating. In addition to the brief address, he read two of Mrs. Spencer's favorite hymns, "How Happy Every Child of God" and "Servant of God, Well Done."
The text of the short sermon was taken from the Gospel of St. John, chapter ii ("Jesus Wept"). Rev. E. F. Church took the committal service at Ross Bay Cemetery.
Honorary pallbearers were the same as for Mr. Spencer's funeral, fourteen years ago: John A. Grant, Dr. S. C. Clemons, W. H. Bone, E. W. Whittington, J. H. Baker and Arthur Lee. The active pallbearers were W. B. Greig, a son-in-law of the late Mrs. Spencer, J. Wilkinson, O. Eby, F. Jeremy, P. Hawkes and W. H. Wigham.
Frank Roberts will lecture this evening at the C.C.P. Hall, 734 Fort Street, at 8 o'clock. His subject will be "Whither Canada?"

W. PITKETHLEY DIES SUDDENLY
William Pitkethley passed away suddenly in his sleep yesterday evening at his home, 1738 North Hampshire Road, aged fifty-four years. An Englishman by birth, Mr. Pitkethley came to this city twenty-four years ago and for many years had been on the indoor staff of the Jubilee Hospital.
He is survived by his widow and one son, Andrew William, and one daughter, Lilian, at the family residence, which one hymn, "Art Thou Weary, Art Thou Languid" was sung. A large number of beautiful floral tributes were received, testifying to the esteem in which the late Mr. Greenbank was held.
The following acted as pallbearers: W. Forster, H. Wichman, W. L. Whittney Griffiths, P. E. Caldwell, G. F. Weir and J. J. Baker.
Interment was in St. Mary's Church Cemetery, Metochin.

NEW CONSUL REACHES CITY
Hon. Theodore Jaekel Has Had Varied Career in U.S. Diplomatic Service
To assume his new post as United States consul-general at Victoria, Theodore Jaekel, who succeeds George A. Bucklin, transferred to Wellington, New Zealand, arrived in the city by the afternoon boat from Vancouver to-day. He is registered at the Empress Hotel.
The last consular post held by Mr. Jaekel was at Zurich, Switzerland. He is a New Yorker who has seen rapid advancement in the U.S. consular service, having represented his government at various European capitals.
He represented the United States last year as official delegate to the third international conference on Private Aerial Law in Rome, Italy.
Receiving his education from private tutors and later at Williams College, where he secured his B.A. in 1904, and at Harvard University, Mr. Jaekel attended the New York Law School, where he obtained his LL.B. in 1908. He then took up law practice and became a member of the New York Bar Association, following that profession for three years.
His first consular post was at Stavanger, Norway, where he took office on July 17, 1914. In 1917 he was advanced in the service and transferred to Stettin, Germany, eighteen months later to Bordeaux, France, and in March, 1923, was assigned to Halifax, Nova Scotia.
In 1924 Mr. Jaekel was named U.S. consul-general to Warsaw, Poland, and since then has served in Milan, Rome and Zurich.

FORD SCENES BEING SHOWN
Motion Picture of Industry Attracts Audiences to National Motor Showrooms
An interesting motion picture, depicting scenes of operation in the great Ford factory at East Windsor, Ontario, is being shown at the National Motor Company on Yates Street.
The first showing was given yesterday evening and attracted a large number of people. It will be shown again this evening and to-morrow evening.
Arnold Lucas, district sales manager of the Ford Motor Co. Company, with headquarters at Vancouver, has come to Victoria in connection with the showing of these films.
The pictures are interspersed with shots of racing scenes, which have made racing history. Some of the pictures show Sir Malcolm Campbell's epic dash on the beach at Daytona, the Schneider Cup race in England, the Indianapolis speedway races, the Gilmore stock car race and the Elgin road race.
Perhaps the most interesting is the half-hour reel "Rhapsody in Steel," which was originally produced for the Century of Progress Exhibition at Chicago at a cost of $50,000. It depicts operations in the Ford plant at Detroit to a symphonic accompaniment. The trick photography, car-racing, symphonic music in this reel are alone well worth seeing and hearing.

Funeral Saturday Of Mrs. J. Parfitt
Funeral services for Mrs. James Parfitt, who succumbed Tuesday from injuries received in a car accident last Saturday, will be conducted to-day at 2.30 o'clock at the Metropolitan United Church at 2.15 o'clock. Rev. E. F. Church officiating. Interment will be made in the family plot in the Royal Oak Burial Park. Mrs. Parfitt's home is handling the arrangements.

VISITOR HERE SEES "CADDY"
Watch Me Grow
Mrs. Thomas L. Knox of Washington Sees Monster Off Oak Bay Golf Course
Anyone who has had doubts of the existence of Caddisaurus should hesitate to snap their fingers at further stories of the serpent after hearing what Mrs. Thomas M. Knox, Oak Bay Apartments, has to say about her experience with Mrs. L. Bullock-Webster, 811 Linklea Avenue, while walking along Beach Drive about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon.
Mrs. Knox, a visitor from the State of Washington, is convinced she saw "Caddy" after watching a monster gallivant for about fifteen minutes off the fifth hole of the Oak Bay golf course.
"Mrs. Bullock-Webster and I were walking along with our dogs, right on the beach, when I first saw the monster," she said this morning. "I called her attention to it and for about fifteen minutes we watched it as it swam around, diving and rising to the surface."
"It was about the distance of two city blocks from the shore but we could make it out plainly. In some respects, its head was not unlike that of a horse and it was dark in color. I never saw anything like it in my life before and I certainly regretted the fact that I did not have a camera with me at the time. After diving three or four times, the monster went down for good, heading towards the city."

JUDGES AT SAANICH
S. J. BOWMAN
Agricultural representative of the B.C. Electric Railway Company, formerly well-known as a showman on both the prairie and coast circuits, has been selected to judge livestock at British Columbia's oldest agricultural fair, sponsored by the North and South Agricultural Societies. This is the sixty-sixth annual fair of the society, the first being held in 1868. The Saanich Peninsula is recognized as the home of some of the finest breeding farms in the west and competition is always keen at this exhibition.

FIREWORKS AT FAIR SATURDAY
Last Horse Show To-night; Big Features For Closing Night
To-night the last horse show programme will be given at Victoria's Provincial Exhibition, W. H. Mearns, secretary of the British Columbia Agricultural Association, announced yesterday. The show will start at 8 o'clock and will feature the finals of the six-horse team driving contest.
To-morrow night there will be a concert. Music will be provided by the thirty-five-piece band of the Canadian Legion and the concert will begin at 7 o'clock. Immediately afterwards there will be a magnificent display of fireworks to be held in front of the grandstand.
Other attractions at the fair are drawing huge crowds. Over 5,000 people have passed through the motion-picture studios, and thousands have seen the wonders in the hall of science. The midway with its thrill rides, its side shows and stands, is a magnet for all, and at night is made brilliant with lights. "Spellers" shouting each other add to the carnival which was the main feature of the fair.
The Manufacturers' Building has been thronged with people and other buildings and features have been well patronized.

Funeral Saturday Of Mrs. J. Parfitt
Funeral services for Mrs. James Parfitt, who succumbed Tuesday from injuries received in a car accident last Saturday, will be conducted to-day at 2.30 o'clock at the Metropolitan United Church at 2.15 o'clock. Rev. E. F. Church officiating. Interment will be made in the family plot in the Royal Oak Burial Park. Mrs. Parfitt's home is handling the arrangements.

English Football Leaders Face Test

Sunderland Travel to Aston Villa For What Should Prove Stiff Match Tomorrow; Arsenal Oppose West Bromwich; Scottish League Games

London, Sept. 14.—Lucky to escape injuries that have upset some of their opponents, Sunderland travel to Aston Villa tomorrow for one of the most interesting tussles of the day's soccer card. Sunderland holds a slight advantage over the first division of the English League, having garnered four wins and a draw in as many starts. Tomorrow, the leaders will field the identical eleven they have used since the start of the season. The Villa has yet to select its line-up. Preston North End, the second-placers, should have little trouble at Wolverhampton.

The Arsenal, league champions, are putting their very best line-up forth for the match at Highbury against West Bromwich, taking no chances. The Arsenal, with two victories and two ties, is three points back of Sunderland. James Drake, Bowden and Beasley, who had a rest when the Arsenal played Glasgow Rangers to a tie Wednesday, will be back on duty.

The Spurs are retaining last week's eleven for the London Derby with Chelsea, who are replacing O'Neil with Barber.

BOLTON MEET NOTTS

Bolton Wanderers go to Notts County for what should be an easy assignment. Newcastle United are at home to Bradford, West Ham are still doubtful about the starting line against Fulham, while the latter's eleven will be unchanged, although there was some doubt about Hammond's fitness.

Cowenry City, still on top of the third division southern section, travel to Newport County. Crystal Palace will be at full strength against Luton.

In the northern section, Tranmere Rovers go to New Brighton, and are expected to return still in command of the division.

Glasgow, Scotland, Sept. 14.—Clyde, champions of the Scottish Football League this season, and St. Johnstone, with whom they share leadership of the first division, look to have every chance of staying on top after tomorrow's matches. Each club has a record of five wins and two draws in as many starts, to hold a slim one-point advantage over the champion Rangers. Tomorrow, Clyde entertains the Hibs, while St. Johnstone are also at home to the Hibernians. Partick Thistle outfit.

Meanwhile, Rangers take on Ayr United at Trox Park, and the champions should have no difficulty with the visitors.

Hamilton Academicals and Motherwell are sharing the third bracket a point back of Rangers. Hamilton will have a struggle with Celtic, but the Pits Parkers are expected to cop the points at Aberdeen.

Two clubs demoted from the first division tangle up when Third Lanark travel to Cowdenbeath.

Listaro Captures Clarendon Plate

Toronto, Sept. 14.—The Clarendon Plate, said by novices to be the preview of the new year's King's Plate, was won Wednesday by Listaro, R. S. McLaughlin's smart two-year-old.

E. F. Seagram's Gay Symphony was second, and Charles Robinson's Epicurus, third.

Listaro drove into the lead as they hit the stretch and won going away.

Lacrosse Champs Lose to Orillia

Canadian Press
Hamilton, Ont., Sept. 14.—Orillia Terras, yesterday evening, won the right to represent Ontario in the Canadian lacrosse play downs when they defeated Hamilton Tigers, 11 to 9, in the second game of the Senior Ontario Lacrosse Association finals, taking the Ontario crown in two straight games. Tigers won the Mann Cup, emblematic of Dominion lacrosse supremacy, last year.

St. Helens Win Lacrosse Battle

Vancouver, Sept. 14.—Fighting to stay in the British Columbia box lacrosse play-offs, St. Helens, Vancouver, yesterday evening, handed West Vancouver Salmonbellies a 13 to 6 defeat and tied up the three-out-of-five-game series at two games each.

The hotel men took a 5 to 2 lead in the first quarter and ran it up to 9 to 4 at half time. They maintained their lead until the final whistle.

Louie Dear Scores Easily In Handicap

Son of Upsett Makes Show of Field on Muddy Track at Willows; Favorites Win Regularly; Jockey Pendergrass in Spill

Louie Dear all the way—this was the story of the Citizens' Handicap, feature event of the Willows race card yesterday afternoon. The brown gelding of Upsett out of Mistress Quickly simply revelled in the muddy going and won as he pleased from a classy field of sprinters.

Louie Dear has been campaigning this year at the Longacres track at Renton, Washington, and Harry Rowe, the owner, brought him over here after the meet closed there. On Tuesday he ran in a sprint affair at Willows and won a close decision from Watch Girl. Yesterday, however, he left no doubt as to his superiority and just capered away from the field from wire to wire.

Second favorite in the betting, he paid $7.15 straight.

J. L. Scooby's entry of Ina Mae and Lady Bird picked up second and third money in the race. Ina Mae is a Western Canadian-bred mare by Nepperham and has had one of her best years this season. She took second easily but was never a match for the winner.

Louie Dear was just one of six first and second favorites which captured the major share of the purses. Despite the uncertainty of the muddy going, the public had little trouble picking the winners.

After Aston Whittier had posted double figures, $10.70 to win the first race, the public choice ruled throughout the day.

Wheat Prices Lower On Grain Exchanges

Canadian Press
Winnipeg, Sept. 14.—Weakness in outside markets and lack of aggressive support left wheat futures in a weak position to-day and closing Winnipeg Grain Exchange figures were 1 1/2 cents to 1 cent lower.

October wheat closed at 82 1/2, December at 83 1/2, and May at 87 1/2. All final quotations represented the day's low levels.

Hedging sales showed a slight falling off from the last few days, but country deliveries Thursday totaled 3,000,000 bushels.

Export sales were negligible and overseas cables indicated foreign buyers were waiting for another break in prices before taking on stocks.

The weakness at Chicago was disturbing, prices in the southern market dropping about 1 1/2 cents or more. Liverpool quotations reflected pressure of Argentine wheat and closed 1/2 to 1/4 lower.

Cash grains again were dull and coarse grains, led by flax, turned downward.

Chicago, Sept. 14 (Canadian Press).—An outbreak of liquidating sales on the part of holders of all grain futures led to price downturns to-day to the lowest level in months.

Assertions were current among traders that the Washington administration would hardly take any action to prevent foreign grain from flowing into the United States over the tariff wall. It was estimated that so far this season imports of Canadian durum wheat into this country totaled 1,172,000 bushels.

Wheat closed unstable, 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 down, corn 1 1/2 to 2 down, oats 1/2 to 3/4 down, and provisions varying from 12 cents decline to 17 cents gain.

What Kind Of Man Do You Want?

Dorothy Dix

Describes One Girl's Dream Husband

A YOUNG WOMAN was describing her ideal husband the other day. "If I could have just the kind of a husband I would like to have," she said, "he would not be the fairy Prince that all girls are supposed to dream of, nor would he be an understudy of a screen lover. Fancy having to live up to a romantic hero, who was always posing around in picturesque attitude and paying you delicate, chivalrous attentions, and who never got mussy or cross, or took part in a family scrimmage!

"Think how terrible it would be to be married to a beauty to whom you would always present an invidious comparison! Imagine how humiliated and green-eyed you would get watching a husband so good-looking that all the other women were trying to take him away from you! Fancy your chagrin when every time you went out together you would hear somebody say: 'Is THAT his wife? What on earth do you suppose made him pick out that chromo?'

"No, indeed. I don't want any superman for a husband. I want a man who is not a model man. I don't want a genius, nor even one who is unusually successful. I want a man who is as full of faults as I am so he will be willing to overlook my shortcomings. I want one who will spend his time admiring me and his money doling me up, instead of expecting me to burn perpetual incense at his feet and thinking that all the good clothes ought to go to the one who would show them off best.

"And I want a husband who will belong to me and give me most of his time and attention, not one who will really be married to his business or his profession and whom I will only see on the rare occasions when he isn't running off to the ends of the earth on a business deal, and who won't want his mind distracted from something he considers really important by any consideration for my pleasure or happiness.

"I want a husband who will be a freetime companion. I want a man who has done all the running around he desires before marriage, and who will be willing to settle down and stay put. When I marry it will be to get a companion. I don't want one of the Wandering Willies who will put on his hat and step out to some place of amusement, leaving me to spend the evening by my lonesome. Nor do I want a stuffed shirt that is about as conversational at home as a store dummy would be.

"I want a husband who will not only stay at home but who will be good company. I want a husband who will be bright and chatty and who will take as much trouble to entertain and amuse me after I am his wife as he did when I was his sweetheart. And I want my husband to be able to talk to me about something besides the stock market and what went wrong at the office. I want him to read the new books and go to see the new plays and not degenerate into a machine that only clicks when you press the button.

"I want to marry a man I won't have to lie to. I want a husband that I won't have to manage, that I won't have to dress things up for before I tell them, that I won't have to hide things from, that I won't have to flatter and cajole into doing the things he should do.

"I want a husband to whom I can say: 'John, I met such an interesting man at the Joneses and I have asked him to tea to-morrow.' And he will say 'fine' instead of raising ructions over it. I don't want to have to practice the tricks of a courtesan on my husband to save a scene when I pay too much for a hat. I don't want to have to pamper him up with an extra good dinner before I break the news to him that Aunt Geraldine is coming for a nice long visit. I want a husband who is big enough to be told the truth, and that is something few women ever get.

"I would like a husband who would play the marriage game fair and square with me, who would go fifty-fifty with me, who would be just as faithful and true to me as he expected me to be to him. I would like a husband who would be more than just a man. I would like a husband in a business deal and whom I could trust so completely that I wouldn't even bother to find out whether his new secretary was a blonde flapper or a grey-headed old maid.

"I would like to have a husband who thought that the laborer was worthy of his hire even if she was married to him, and who wouldn't expect a wife to work for her board and clothes, and those grudgingly given. I would want my husband to realize that financial independence is as necessary to a woman's self-respect as it is to a man's, and who would give me of his own accord a definite allowance for my own personal needs instead of making me paralyze him for every cent.

"I want my husband to be tender and affectionate. Marriage isn't much of a picnic for women at best, and it isn't any party at all if the husband is surly and grouchy, or mean and tyrannical, or if he is a human refrigerator. I want to be able to go to my husband for sympathy and understanding when I am in trouble. I want to lean on his strength when I am tired and weak. I want to feel that when I am sick he will pity me and cherish me instead of noting how my complexion has gone off and counting up the doctor's bill.

"And I want a husband who won't drop all love-making at the altar and take it for granted that I know he still adores me because he hasn't divorced me. I am no mind-reader and I want him to tell me continually that I am the only woman in the world to him, and that I grow dearer day by day.

"And if he'll do that, nothing else matters. I'll still thank God for having got the ideal husband."

MARKETING ACT IS DISCUSSED

Cowichan Committee Appointed to Meet Growers of Vancouver Island

Special to The Times
Duncan, Sept. 14.—A meeting of vegetable growers of the Cowichan district was held in the agricultural office last night, twenty being present. Morris Wilson of Hillbank was voted to the chair. A Peterson of Duncan acted as secretary.

The meeting was called in response to a letter received from the Courtenay growers urging an opinion from all Vancouver Island growers on the new Marketing Act and to appoint a committee to meet with other island growers so as to be in readiness when the act comes into force. The Cowichan growers would not express an opinion on the Marketing Act. Several speakers expressed the opinion that the Dominion government was altogether too slow in forwarding information to the provincial authorities to enable the act to become operative. Some doubt was also expressed as to the act being workable on products from other provinces and from inter-zone products within the province. A suggestion was advanced that an educational campaign urging the consuming public to use a little more of Canada's basic farm products would increase consumption that the demand would take care of the marketing problem. In this connection the following illuminating statistics were given: If 40 per cent of Canada's ten million people each used one potato each per day, 48,000 tons would be required; eggs, two per week each, would require 32,000,000 dozen; apples, one each per day, would require approximately 5,000,000 boxes; butter, half ounce each per day would require 40,000,000 pounds; milk, two ounces per day, would require 180,000,000 gallons; wheat, one additional slice of bread each per day, would require 4,000,000 bushels; bacon, two ounces per week, would require 25,000,000 pounds.

The meeting appointed a committee to meet other island growers at a time and place to be decided upon.
